Soldier Aid for the Collums

An article appearing in the Pacific Stars & Stripes prompted two Army NCOs to organize a fund-raising drive in the 592nd Transportation Company for a South San Francisco welfare mother who has three children doomed to early deaths with Batten's disease.

Mrs. Jacqueline Collum's plight was carried by the Associated Press photo wire and was picked up by Pacific Stars & Stripes. She was pictured with her three remaining children.

First Sergeant Robert E. Coffey, of Colorado Springs, Colorado, and Truckmaster, SFC Carlton Jordan, of Greensville, Alabama, brought the clipping to the attention of their company commander, Capt. Thomas L. Smith, of Kenton, Ohio. The three of them decided that the company should do something to help.

A few days later was pay day. The clipping was displayed on the pay table and all of the officers and men of the 592nd responded with contributions. A total of $551 was donated from the 215-man company.

The $551 was converted into a money order and sent to the Wells Fargo Bank in San Mateo County for deposit in Mrs. Collum's name.

THE POST

Vol. 25, No. 43 DELIVERED EVERY WEDNESDAY MORNING Wednesday, Oct. 27, 1971

BILL RUMFORD, BART assistant chief of security, models new security officer's uniform.

The Transit District's Policemen

A select group is expected to soon start training at the San Francisco Police Academy for eventual duty with the Bay Area Rapid Transit District.

They are BART's future security force — the men who will be required to enforce rules at rapid transit facilities throughout the Bay Area.

In 1969, the district adopted a proposed policy for police protection declaring that the responsibility for patrolling each station was in the hands of local law enforcement agencies.

The following year — in 1970 — it was decided to establish a separate security force for BART that would work with local police in each city.

A new resolution was adopted by the district and duties of this new proposed security force were spelled out.

It was emphasized BART's police agents would be responsible only for violations on property belong to the district. Local police would take over off the premises.

Daly City police chief Roland Petrocchi said the terminus station of BART to be located on Knowles Avenue east of the Junipero Serra Freeway would pose no problem for his department.

Petrocchi felt the usual run of minor lawbreakers might be encountered, "inasmuch as this will be the end of the line for riders."

These "minor lawbreakers" are expected to be drunks who forget to get off at the right station, the chief said.

Asked if the added duties of patrolling in and around the station will require more policemen, Petrocchi answered "not really."

He said the station can be considered as another new building, much the same as a department store, that is built in the city.

It would fall into the same (Please See Page 2, Column 1)

2 Blasts Jar North County

Daly City and surrounding communities were rocked by two separate explosions early on Friday, shattering windows in more than a dozen homes and jolting residents out of their beds.

No one was hurt.

Cause of the explosions, which struck at 2:28 a.m., remains a mystery.

The Air Force said a falling satellite or some piece of space junk might have caused the pair of booms.

Hamilton Air Force Base authorities suggested the space debris theory, however the North American Air Defense Command said there was no space junk in the area.

The NAADC is conducting the investigation.

A 5-man search squad of police led by Sergeant Ralph Warren combed the Crocker Hills in eastern Daly City until midmorning in hopes of uncovering some clue as to the origin of the blasts.

Their search proved fruitless.

Hamilton Air Force Base in Marin issued a report that none of its supersonic fighters were in the air at the time.

Captain Corfield, of the Base Information Office, said he had further checked the incident with the Federal Aviation Administration which requires all planes expectng to make a supe rsonic overflight to file with them.

"The FAA said they had received no such flight plan," Captain Corfield said.

The Air Force's worldwide space tracking headquarters was checking out the possibility that the explosions were caused by "a satellite or other space junk" entering the atmosphere at that time.

Dozens of windows in homes along upper Templeton Avenue were shattered by the force of the explosions.

The first blast reverberated through the North County at 2:28 a.m., followed by a second explosion of equal force seconds later.

Sergeant Warren was on motor patrol near the scene when the first blast struck.

He reported seeing a white column of smoke, "that quickly dissipated," rise above the area.

The area is uninhabited terrain near the city's Number One water reservoir on a lower slope of rugged San Bruno Mountain.

Another resident of the neighborhood, whose identity was not revealed, said he saw "a bright (Please See Page 2, Column 1)

Mother Seeks New Home

The Collum Family Told It Must Move

Mrs. Jacqueline Collum, whose three children are dying of a rare nerve disease, is hoping she will be able to buy a new house with donations before she has to vacate her home of six years.

An eviction notice served last week informed the 34-year-old welfare mother that she and the children must move out of her rented home here by next April 1.

Since her latest problem was publicized, Mrs. Collum has been offered a Southern California apartment and help in buying a house from a couple in Marin County.

Mrs. Collum has received $7,000 in donations, including $1,500 from sailors aboard the Navy carrier Midway, since her oldest child, Patty, 13, died last month of Batten's disease, a rare disorder that causes blindness, crippling brain deterioration and finally death before age 20. But the donations have all gone into a special trust fund for care of her three remaining children — who are in various stages of the disease.

"If I can just get enough help to buy a house — money that doesn't go into the children's fund — that would make things easier," she said.

Mrs. Collum said she doesn't want to move, but she understands the landlord needs the house for his daughter and her husband.

"Every time we move it's hard on the children," Mrs. Collum said, because the two oldest, 12-year-old Kathleen and 7-year-old Charles, are blind, must learn to feel their way around a totally new environment. Little Crystal, Mrs. Collum's 6-year-old, is beginning to lose her vision.

Mrs. Collum said she is hunting for a single story home on ground level in a quiet neighborhood whether she buys or continues to rent.

"If I could find a couple of people who could give me one or two thousand dollars apiece," she said, "just enough for a down payment, then I think I could buy one."

Mrs. Collum turned down an offer from a Huntington Beach man to let her use his apartment and pay her moving expenses to Southern California.

But even if she doesn't find a house for her and her children, Mrs. Collum has been assured by the San Mateo County Housing Authority of a home somewhere.

"They told me that in any case, I won't be out on the street," she said.

HAPPY MOMENT is shared by 18-month-old Matthew Vasquez' mother and grandmother with the youngster's life savers, Attilia Malepeaz, left, and Reynaldo Belmonte. From Matthew's expression, he seems unconcerned about the entire procedure. However, according to South San Francisco Fire Chief John Marchi, the youngster might not be around if it hadn't been for Malepeaz and Belmonte's efforts to dislodge an aspirin from the boy's throat and restore his breathing on October 6. Steps Taken To Finish Serra Fwy.

Steps to complete the Junipero Serra Freeway —Interstate 280 — have been taken with the adoption of the $921,252,000 State Highway Budget for the Fiscal Year 1972-73 by the California Highway Commission.

Several other San Mateo County projects also are included in the budget.

The Serra program reached its last links in San Mateo, San Francisco and Santa Clara Counties with the budget action.

In San Francisco, $1,819,000 was budgeted to complete financing of a recently advertised project for extending construction in progress on the eight-lane Interstate 280 freeway a half mile northeasterly from Sixth Street to Third Street.

The project includes construction of a northbound off-ramp to Fourth Street, San Francisco. Estimated cost of the whole project in that city is $9,700,000 of which $7,881,000 was budgeted for the current fiscal year.

In San Mateo County, $3,500,000 was budgeted to assist in the financing of the extension of 280 two and a half miles southerly from the Eugene A. Doran Memorial Bridge across San Mateo Creek.

It will include construction of connecting ramps to Skyline Boulevard (Route 35) and an interchange with Ralston Avenue (Route 92, the Younger Freeway.)

Estimated cost of this project will total $12,350,000 of which $3,200,000 was budgeted this year and $5,650,000 will be budgeted in the 1973-74 fiscal year.

Also included is action to extend the Serra eight-lane freeway four and one tenth miles northerly from Raymundo Drive in Woodside to construction in progress two and a half miles north of Edgewood Road. Grading and structures work on most of this stretch is in progress unler previous financing.

The project includes the construction of interchanges at (Please See Page 2, Column 7)

The County's Mileage Fees May Be Cut

County Manager M. D. Tarshes recommended today that the county charter be amended to delete the 10-cents-a-mile reimbursement ceiling for use of employe-owned cars on official business.

He also urged the phasing out of another reimbursement system, under which employes required to use their cars are paid a "rental allowance" of $40 a month plus eight cents a mile for actual miles traveled.

Tarshes said the county should be in a position to give employes who need the use of a car in their work a choice between using a car from the motor pool or being reimbursed at an adequate mileage rate.

Tarshes noted that a federal report released nearly two years ago indicated a cost of 10.1 cents a mile to operate a car, including depreciation, maintenance, repair, fuel, insurance and taxes. Not included were such other costs as bridge tolls.

San Bruno Manager

Griffith Mails 'Selection' Registered to Himself

Former San Bruno City Councilman Richard Griffith announced on Monday he has placed the name of the next city manager in a sealed envelope and registered it to himself.

This, he feels, is an equitable and foolproof method of proving he has the "pre-selected" name of the next city manager, expected to be appointed by the council within the next three weeks.

"I merely registered the envelope to myself Saturday," Griffith said. "Since it bears the flap-seal date of October 23 no one can question that it was placed there in advance of the appointment.

He said the envelope containing the next city manager's name was registered at the San Mateo Post Office under Number 39286.

For weeks Griffith, who was recalled by voters along with accused both Councilmen Theodore Long last April, has George Corey and Maurice Hamilton of having already selcted the next city manager to replace ousted Christopher (Kit) Menkin.

In a challenge to "put up or shut up" last week, Councilman Corey offered a wager of $100 if Griffith placed the right name inside an envelope and filed it with an "outside" third party.

Griffith's latest proposal places the city council in a delicate position.

The recalled councilman now claims that four members of the council — Corey, Hamilton, Koskowski and Governale — are afraid to appoint the person whose name he has in the envelope to the city manager's post.

"Mayor Hamilton cannot be sure that his security is airtight on the city manager preselection. I say it wasn't, and I'm banking on his not being willing to risk political oblivion by appointing the man in my envelope," Griffith said.

A letter dated October 25 was sent by Griffith to Mayor Hamilton and the city council outlining his envelope proposal.

But some city council members feel the offer is too pat.

If they happen to appoint the person in Griffith's envelope, the former councilman will claim he had the name all along.

On the other hand, if the names fail to match, Griffith may accuse the council of "not being willing to risk political oblivion. . . ."

'Pacific Heights Night' At Bruno Planners' Meet

It will be Pacific Heights night at the Nov. 1 meeting of the San Bruno Planning Commission — a meeting that appears certain to be wracked with controversy.

There will be an application for a permit to reopen the pizza parlor in the Pacific Heights Shopping Center, to be known as "The Pub." This place was originally known as Me 'n' Ed's. Popular as a center for young people, it also posed quite a police problem, from time to time.

Then, developer Perry Liebman will be coming back with a hearing on rezoning the controversial 6½-acre vacant site behind the Pacific Heights Shopping Center from commercial to (Please See Page 2, Column 1)

Airport Locations Probed

By GEORGE GOLDING

There is no easily selected answer to the Bay Area's problem of what to do about airports.

That much is made clear in a two-volume report on "economic" and "spatial impact" of 11 suggested locations for the area's future air traffic.

The report was prepared by the University of California's Institute of Transportation and Traffic Engineering, as part of the Regional Airports Systems Study being done by the Association of Bay Area Governments and the Bay Area Study of Aviation Requirements.

In essence, the report says that whichever local government wants to develop a major airport, to bring in or hold local jobs, or to increase local property tax income, can do so, but that there is no single "best" choice for the overall Bay Area.

One site with a great potential, says the study, is Travis Air Force Base. The Air Force has shown no signs of giving it up, but if this site was developed as a major civilian airfield, Solano county would obtain a marked increase in general income, tax income, and housing. In other words, semi-rural Solano county would become urbanized.

Neither San Francisco International, Oakland, San Jose, nor Travis Air Force Base is totally ideal, the report says, not if you take into account factors such as job locations, property and sales taxes, and other interrelated facets of urban life.

The study indicates that, no matter where the area's major airport growth occurs between now and 1980, little growth in aviation employment can be expected at San Francisco International. Reason for this assumption is that the big local airport is already operating at very near its expected capacity.

Possible effects on San Mateo county are not given much consideration in the report, because the county did not participate in the study, although effects of various alternative developments on property taxes and income, are used in several computations.

Neither does the report make a recommendation.

Field Narrowed

The city council in San Bruno hopes it will be able to select a new city manager by the end of the month — which is only a few days away.

Mayor Maurice Hamilton said the field of candidates had been narrowed from seven to four last week.

flash" and then heard the explosions.

Within minutes after the blasts, switchboards at police and fire stations in Pacifica and Daly City were lit up.

Daly City police Lt. Jim Doran said his department received "hundreds of calls about the incident."

Calls were also received in South San Francisco, San Bruno and as far south as Millbrae.

Residents of San Francisco also demanded explanation of the blasts from police and fire departments in their city.

Daly City police were expected to ask for assistance in searching for the cause of the incident from San Mateo County Sheriff's deputies.

Residents from as far away as Novato and south to Millbrae, were awakened.

Police and fire departments in the North Bay Area said they received several calls reporting the loud noise but there were no reports of damage.

At San Francisco International Airport a spokesman said if it was a sonic boom, it apparently did not originate with any planes there.

planned development (PD). An application to rezone the site to RM—garden apartments — had been recently rejected by the City Council, largely because councilmen felt that the RM zoning failed to provide the city with enough design control.

Strong objections had also been voiced to the proposed density—175 units for 6½ acres. Whether the developer — Liebman is unofficially reported to have obtained a new developer for this project — will be proposing tower apartment units, was not known to the planners this week. Commissioner William Cox urged that efforts be made by the planning staff to obtain Liebman's plans before the hearing, so that they can be studied.

A Birthday Party Marred by Tragedy

A birthday party for a teenage East Bay girl was marred by tragedy Monday afternoon when one of the guests — a 22-year-old Hayward man—drowned in the surf off Pescaedro Beach.

Pronounced dead on arrival at Moss Beach Rehabilitation Hospital, despite attempts of a Half Moon Bay Fire Department rescue squad to restore his breathing, was Richard Allen Morgado.

Two friends, Jerry Stuhlmacher and Susan Grimes, both 17 and both from San Lorenzo, told investigators that five carloads of youths arrived at the beach about 1:30 p.m., to celebrate the birthday of a girl.

At 1:30 p.m., Stuhlmacher said Morgado went into the water. Stuhlmacher said he warned Morgado to swim rather than wade because, of the undertow.

Morgado disappeared under the water, then reappeared and called for help while some 50 yards off shore. Witnesses reported they could not reach him at first because of the heavy surf.

Canada Road and Edgewood Road, and three vista points.

Estimated cost of this section is $9,850,000 of which $4,450,000 will be budgeted in the 1973-74 fiscal year.

In Santa Clara County, $4,950,000 has been budgeted to assist in financing construction of a partial interchange between 280 and the Bayshore Freeway.

In Alameda County, another project being financed will see $3,700,000 budgeted to complete financing of eight tenths of a mile of four-lane Route 92 Expressway being converted to full freeway standards between a completed section westerly to the San Mateo-Hayward Bridge, and the interchange with the Nimitz Freeway.

Other San Mateo County projects include action to construct a four-lane Route 1 Freeway section between nine tenths of a mile south of San Vicente Creek, east of Moss Beach and one and a quarter miles north of Martini Creek, 4.3 miles northerly.

This project will include constructing an interchange at George Street in the Montara area, bridges across San Vicente and Martini creeks and a vista point near the northern end of the work.

A subsequent project, which will be scheduled for completion at the same time, will extend the freeway to existing Route 1 in Pacifica. Estimated cost is $8.7 million, of which $5.7 million will be budgeted in the 1973-74 fiscal year.

Also acted upon was installation of a storm drain for El Camino Real adjacent to the south branch of Redwood Creek between just south of Redwood Avenue and just north of Lincoln in Redwood City, a distance of four-tenths of a mile. Estimated cost is $170,000.

Construction of a four-lane westbound overhead on Interstate 380 across the Southern Pacific railroad tracks near Huntington Avenue, San Bruno was acted upon. Eastbound overhead and two bridges are already being built under previous financing to facilitate hauling earth during construction of this freeway. Estimated cost is $2,575,000.

In Santa Clara, widening of El Camino Real from four lanes to six divided by a median was acted upon. This is a section between the Lawrence Expressway in the city of Santa Clara, and the Stevens Creek Freeway in Mountain View, a distance of 4.5 miles.

Water Control Project Engineering Readied

By BOB PETERSON

Final engineering is being readied to implement the first stage of the $3 million-plus wastewater management program of the South San Francisco-San Bruno subregional area.

South San Francisco councilmen last week instructed the firm of Jenks and Adamson, consulting sanitary and civil engineers of Palo Alto retained by the city to complete a four-part project.

John Jenks estimates the construction will begin about August of next year, with completion about a year later.

He said deadline for a project report, including a description of method of financing, is December 1. Jenks is asking South San Francisco "give early consideration to this matter," and said he also has contacted partner San Bruno and the airport for a proposed financing method.

Jenks has suggested that South San Francisco, originally with an estimated total contribution of $2,247,000, would be wise to finance the intiial Merck and Company share of the project cost, now estimated to be $250,000.

He said the advantage to Merck is that there would be no immediate major capital investment and later smaller lease charges can be written off as business deduction.

The advantage to South San Francisco is tied into the fact that the $250,000 would be eligible for the 80 per cent funding, meaning South San Francisco would only have to come up with $50,000.

Jenks said the city then could presumably adopt a lease arrangement for Merck to repay annually on the basis of an amortization schedule, and at interest, the entire $250,000. He said this could be in the range of $15,000 to $20,000 a year to the city, depending on the agreement.

If this were done, said Jenks, the total estimated cost to South San Francisco would be approximately $2,500,000. With 80 per cent federal and state funding coming to about $2,000,000, the city would actually have cash funding of $500,000.

Jenks warned, however, that while cost participation would be in the neighborhood of $50,000, state regulations require that grant recipients have available cash amounting to approximately 50 per cent of the project cost.

South San Francisco would need to have $1,250,000 on hand, with $500,000 of it being a permanent investment.

The remaining $750,000 would be needed only until after the project construction is completed and all grant monies are received.

Jenks offered the city two possibilities for obtaining this needed $1,250,000.

One is to seek passage of a bond issue for the $1,250,000, with the intention that $500,000 of it be used for the project and the $750,000 remaining be used after the project is completed for some other needed project.

The second possibility is to seek a bond issue for $500,000 and raise the additional $750,000 by short term financing, such as tax anticipation notes, borrowing from the capital improvement fund, reserves or other means.

Final project planning has to be completed by May 1, 1972, in order to meet the state and federal grant approval deadlines, said Jenks.

The project as presented conforms with the Regional Water Quality Control Board's Interim Basin Plan, which includes connections with the airport and Merck and Company.

Facilities to be designed and built include improvements and enlargements to the present treatment plant, an outfall force main on land from the plant to the bay and a submarine outfall, underwater approximately 5,500 feet.

Westborough's Park Funds Delayed by S.S.F. Council

Although federal funds are on the way, South San Francisco councilmen in a deadlock vote refused to approve a second-phase plan for development of the Westborough 10-acre park.

Councilman Frank Mammini last week noted that City Manager Gale Driesbach's weekly status report to the councilmen indicated a $46,000 Housing and Urban Development (HUD) grant will be forthcoming.

Mammini suggested that the city, on this basis, go ahead and hire an architect to prepare the plans for the next phase of development, to be ready to begin work when the grant arrives.

"We've already promised the Westborough residents a park without federal funding," he said. "So regardless of the HUD grant we should keep that promise."

Councilman Warren Steinkamp sided with Mammini. Councilman Patrick Ahern and Frank Bertucelli, however, said they wanted to see the money in the bank before they would agree to hiring anyone.

And the deciding vote, Mayor William Borba, decided he would not vote. So the mayor's abstention tied the vote and killed the issue.

The park's completion has been a bone of contention for quite some time.

Superintendent of Recreation and Parks Bob Maxey said he wrote a letter to HUD on May 17 regarding the government's legacy of parks program. In June HUD representatives visited South San Francisco. In July they were given additional information.

Bruno Sewer Costs Going Up 40-Cents

It will cost San Bruno families 40 cents a month more to keep the Bay clean.

City councilmen decided to raise the monthly sewage service charge from $1.35 to $1.75 in order to raise some $200,000 needed for San Bruno's share of improvement of the sewage treatment plant it shares with South San Francisco.

They met Thursday night in a special meeting called for the purpose of deciding on methods of financing the improvement, which would provide for a more intensive secondary treatment. The Bay Area Water Quality Board has found the Bay to be polluted at times in the area around the outlet for the sewage treatment plant.

In addition to the 40 cents a month increase, the council decided to provide $60,000 more in the 1972-73 capital improvement, financed largely by sales taxes. There is already $60,000 in the current capital improvements budget which the council also decided to use for the expansion.

Councilmen acted upon recommendation of Acting City Manager Leo Van Dusen. They rejected several other alternates he presented, including increasing the sewage service charge by $2 for six months, or by 70 cents from Jan. 1 to August 1973, the time it will take to construct the new improvements.

Large users of the sewage plant, such as laundromats, supermarkets and industrial plants, will pay a proportionate increase in the sewage fee. Groceries pay $20 a month. The fee finances the entire cost of the sewage treatment plant.

An ordinance to increase the monthly fee will be introduced at the next meeting of the city council, delayed to Wednesday because of the Monday holiday.

The 40-cent increase will be a permanent one, Van Dusen predicted. Once the plant is completed, the cost of operation will go up by $50,000 a year — San Bruno's share. More power will be needed to operate the plant. A continuous testing program will be required, which will either require hiring of more technicians, or hiring a laboratory firm.

Councilmen also made a decision on another problem involved in improving the plant. San Bruno's total share is estimated at $980,000, of which the Federal Government is expected to pay 80 per cent. However, San Bruno will need at least half the amount of total construction cost on hand, around $500,000, to pay the contractor.

Councilmen voted to issue grant anticipation notes for the 13 to 15 months during which the city must wait for its federal grant money. Such notes, Van Dusen told the councilmen, carry a reasonably low interest.

10 Officers Added to Airport Duty

Ten additional policemen will be hired at San Francisco International Airport, along with several other employes for whose payroll the Airports Commission yesterday approved money.

Commissioners voted a $1,377,213 supplemental appropriation, to pay for the extra airport police, three electricians, three plumbers, three laborers, a truck driver, an auto mechanic, an accountant, and three office girls.

Airports Director James K. Carr said the additional staff will allow full service to airport clients, on all three shifts.

The appropriation also covered costs of certain airport maintenance work, he said.

Millbrae, Bruno Owners Face Double Tax Rate

Property owners in San Bruno and Millbrae are apparently stuck with a double tax rate for fire protection unless a special bill by State Sen. Arlen Gregorio to eliminate the situation is passed by the State Legislature.

County Supervisor Robert St. Clair brought the matter to the attention of the Board of Supervisors last week. But the board was informed by Chief Civil Deputy District Attorney James Parmelee that there is nothing the county can do about it.

Oversights on the part of Millbrae and San Bruno city officials to file exemption notices under a new state law has resulted in the situation.

Up until this year, the county's payments to the state for fire protection service by the Division of Forester in areas not covered by city or district fire departments were made from the general fund.

It was decided that this wasn't fair to taxpayers already taxed for city or district fire service, and the State Legislature enacted a law whereby the county tax would be applied only to areas not covered by city or district fire service.

However, it was necessary for the various cities and districts to file for exemptions, and file the exemptions with the county. Millbrae City Council authorized filing of the exemption, but it was not filed by the deadline of last March 1. San Bruno City Council took no action until after the deadline.

St. Clair said he thought the situation was unfair, particularly in the case of Millbrae. He asked if anything could be done.

When Parmelee said it would take special legislation, County Manager M. D. Tarshes said that Sen. Gregorio was attempting to remedy the situation with a special bill.

St. Clair, who lives in Millbrae, said the oversight is costing him an additional $5 on his 1971-72 tax bill. Tarshes reported that the state fire tax amounts to 4.7 cents per $100 of assessed valuation.

Free Tolls For 3 Cities

San Mateo, San Bruno, and South San Francisco phone customers will be able to call each other toll free after today.

This means San Mateo phone customers calling San Bruno and South San Francisco will save an estimated $210,000 in toll charges in the first year, according to Dick DeLuna, Pacific Telephone's San Mateo manager. San Bruno and South San Francisco residents will pay about $357,000 less for phone service.

"Lower costs will increase the phone traffic between these areas," says DeLuna. "To insure that phone service maintains a high quality despite the increased volume, the company has invested an additional $848,000 to boost call carrying capacity," DeLuna adds.

Obscene Book Store Charges Dismissed

The case against Arnold Haskin, 40-year-old Mountain View man arrested June 14 for selling obscene material in a San Bruno adult bookstore, has been dismissed.

However, disposition of similar charges against Haskin's partner, Glenn Bumgardner, 35, of Burlingame, are pending. They, too, probably will be dismissed, according to one authority.

Deputy District Attorney John O'Leary said the charges against Haskin were dismissed on condition he does not attempt to operate a similar business again anywhere in the county.

The bookstore, which came under immediate fire by outraged San Bruno residents, has been closed since shortly after the arrests.

O'Leary said there was a technical problem with the case, causing it to be postponed.

The bookstore, at 540 San Mateo Avenue, is now an imported gift shop.

S.S.F. Staff Confers on Bay Fill

South San Francisco City staff members met last week with contractor Arthur "Buzz" Haskins to outline fill procedures of Haskins' Bay dump site off East Grand Avenue.

The city was represented by City Engineer Lou Goss and City Attorney John Noonan. Haskins' soils engineer Carl Basore also was present.

Goss said the city asked Haskins to have his soils engineer make a study and file an amended report giving the present status of the fill and what Haskins proposes to do to stablize it.

According to Goss there is no deadline for the report. He said Haskins indicated he would do it right away.

The meeting came about when city officials began being questioned as to whether Haskins was violating his grading permit, issued prior to the advent of Bay Conservation and Development Commission (BCDC).

There has been conflicting reports on this matter.

Goss Wednesday said, "Haskins' grading was not being done in accordance with the recommendations of the soils engineer as required in the grading permit."

The city engineer also said that the alternative to Haskins' not following the stipulations of the grading permit is for the city council to revoke the permit.

Wildlife Hearings Slated

Congressman Paul N. McCloskey has reported that hearings on the establishment of a San Francisco Bay National Wildlife Refuge will be held in Washington October 29.

"I am very gratified that a date has been set for consideration of this bill (H.R. III)," McCloskey, one of the co-sponsors of the legislation said.

McCloskey is a member of the Fisheries and Wildlife Conservation Subcommittee of the Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee which will hold the hearings.

The bill would set up wildlife refuges along the Bay shore covering a total of 31,662 acres in the areas of Redwood City, Fremont and Alviso.

At the October 29 hearings there will be testimoney on the proposed legislation from Department of the Interior officials and spokesmen for various conservation groups.

The subcommittee may hold further hearings in the San Francisco Bay Area, McCloskey said.

Jet Turns Back After Bomb Threat

A jet headed for the Orient was called back to the San Francisco International airport Wednesday after a male caller telephoned to report there were 11 sticks of dynamite in the cargo compartment.

Deputy R. Jenkins reported that Miss Mary Louise Kurtz, 26, a ticket agent at the airport for Trans World Airlines, received a call shortly before 8 p.m. from a male caller.

"Has the 7 flight to Bangkok left?" the man asked.

When Miss Kurtz replied yes, the caller said, "You better call it back. There are 11 sticks of dynamite in the cargo hold. You better call it back before 8:30. This is not a hoax."

Jenkins reported by the time he arrived at the fire rescue building, trucks were already standing by and the passengers had been evacuated and were inside the fire department building.

New Hero Found in SSF; Youth Receives Rescue Reward Nov. 1

By BOB PETERSON

When Reynaldo Belmonte appears at the November 1, South San Francisco city council meeting he will do so with another hero—Atiliai M. Malepeaz.

Belmonte, of 263 Holly Avenue, who was scheduled to have been recognized at the October 18 meeting for saving a child's life bowed out of that session because he felt Malepeaz was more deserving of the honor.

It was somewhat of an embarrassing situation that Monday night when Mayor William Borba called Belmonte's name, while proudly displaying the resolution of commendation and mayor's plaque he was going to present.

Since that time, it has been revealed that Malepeaz was a key factor in the life-saving incident, but quietly left the scene when he saw the firemen arrive with their resuscitation apparatus.

As a result the firemen's report gave life-saving credit to Belmonte but had no reference to Malepeaz' contribution.

The life-saving incident occurred shortly after 4:30 p.m. October 6 when Mrs. Elizabeth Vasquez, grandmother of 18-month-old Matthew Ellis Vasquez, was attempting to give her grandson an aspirin.

The youth decided he didn't want it, and the tiny pill became lodged in the boy's throat.

When efforts by the grandmother and the child's mother, Mrs. Nellie Vasquez, failed, screams for help reverberated from the 270 Holly Street address.

Next door neighbor Belmonte, also a close friend, ran into the house. He took young Matthew, patted him on the back and then jiggled him in the air in an effort to dislodge the aspirin.

While this activity was going on, Malepeaz, a 21-year-old police science major at San Francisco City College, was walking to the store on the other side of the street.

He saw Belmonte shaking the boy and became concerned that there was child abuse. He rushed to the scene to quickly be appraised of the problem.

As Mrs. Elizabeth Vasquez says, "We all just got out of the way and he (Malepeaz) took over."

Malepeaz, who lives at 295 Holly Avenue with his father, put to use his knowledge of mouth-to-mouth resuscitation he had learned as a Boy Scout in his native Fagaitua, American Samoa.

The grandmother said she had difficulty in getting the boy's mouth open. His mouth clamped shut and he quit breathing when Belmonte's jiggling efforts finally dislodged the unwanted aspirin.

This is when Malepeaz moved in. He gently but firmly applied pressure to the child's jaw, at the same time breathing into the youth's mouth and applying pressure gently on the boy's chest.

An eternity of three minutes passed and the boy began breathing. The fire department's rescue squad, who had been called by the child's mother during the activity, arrived to find young Matthew screaming his lungs out.

Assured to himself that everything was under control, Malepeaz quietly walked out the door to complete his errand.

Fire Chief Marchi said he is recommending that both men be recognized for their efforts at the November 1 council meeting.

Marchi said the time lapse from when the family waited to call until the firemen arrived would have been a fatal period for young Matthew had not Belmonte and Malepeaz responded.

Wrong Turn Leads to Drug Arrest

Five persons were arrested on narcotics charges early on Friday. The driver of their car made the mistake of turning off Interstate Highway 380 onto the Nineteenth Avenue Freeway — heading west in the eastbound lanes in front of California Highway Patrolmen and sheriff's deputies.

Highway Patrolman Billy E. Smyser Jr. reported the driver of the car, Lorenzo Estores, 26, a computer operator of 552 Esplanade, Pacifica, realized his mistake after travelling some 300 yards. Before that, however, Smyser noticed three occupants in the rear seat of the vehicle place something under the seat.

A search of the car revealed six kilos of marijuana packed in plastic bags, Smyser reported.

Estoros was arrested for driving under the influence of marijuana and possession of marijuana for sale. Charged with possession of marijuana and possession of narcotics for sale were four occupants of the vehicle—Alice K. Pegott, 21, unemployed, of San Francisco; Andrew M. Cowart, 20, a student of 2330 Burbon Court, South San Francisco; Steve L. Brewer, 18, a student of 1419 South B Street, San Mateo, and Gregory M. Millis, 18, of the same San Mateo address, who listed no occupation.

Drive to Aid Needy at Yule Launched in S.S.F.

South San Francisco Avalon Concerned Taxpayer (ACT) group's annual needy family Christmas drive is under way, according to ACT President Louis Barnes.

Mrs. Barnes said ACT has established three "drop off" (or "mail to") stations in South San Francisco where members of ACT will accept donations of toys, food, clothing and Blue Chip stamps.

The stations and their operators are Mrs. William Millar at 220 Northwood Drive, Mrs. Ray Fraschiari at 478 Avalon Drive and Mrs. Gil Caravantes at 435 Valverde Drive.

As in the past two years ACT will contact each of the city's churches to determine if that congregation knew of a needy family.

In the first year of operation ACT aided two families. Last year seven families received gifts, food, trees, decorations and other items gathered to make a happy Christmas.

ACT gives directly to the churches involved and in no way contacts or wants to know the families helped, other than to know the number of people in each, their sexes and the ages of the children.

Blue Chip stamps are used to purchase gifts to complete donations to the families. Cash donations purchase last minute perishables such as turkeys, potatoes, fresh vegetables, fruit and frozen items to make a full dinner menu for each family.

QUESTION:

● Would you consider buying half a dining room set to fill a complete dining room?

ANSWER:

● Our competitors seem to think so for when they advertise, they give you a choice of chairs and table or china. At SUBURBAN HOUSE we feel that the average dining room set consists of a table, 2 arm and 4 side chairs and a china cabinet. Rather than make the customer add all the separate pieces, we price what the customer will more than likely buy.

EXAMPLE:

● This majestic Mediterranean dining room set includes table with leaves, 2 arm chairs, 4 side chairs and china cabinet. 56".

Bride-to-Be Sees Fiance Drowning

A bride-to-be looking out at her fiance, swimming in Edan's Cove just south of Devil's Slide on Friday, suddenly noticed to her horror that his body was floating in and out on the waves.

Her calls brought others to the scene, as the body of Tim Young Jr., 29, floated and sank. As the coastal waves brought the body up, they recovered it.

First aid, and efforts of a fire department rescue unit from Montara, using resuscitator and closed heart massage, failed to revive Young, a dishwasher, at a San Francisco hotel. He came here recently to marry Anijak Young, also of San Francisco.

Anijak said her betrothed was due to wed her in the near future. She said he had been in the water about 20 minutes when she noticed what had happened.

One witness who had also observed the situation said he had thought Young was playing, because he seemed to be floating in and out on the waves.

Young was pronounced dead on arrival at Moss Beach Rehabilitation Hospital. His death was listed as accidental. He is survived by his parents in Philadelphia.

Suits Stolen

A Michigan man with obviously expensive tastes in clothes reported to South San Francisco police October 17, that $2,300 in clothes and other items had been taken from his car.

Police said Joseph R. Martin, who was staying at the Royal Inn, reported that the theft occurred between 5:35 a.m. and 5:55 a.m. A coat hanger was used to gain entrance.

Martin, 48, owner of J. Robert Martin, Inc., of Royal Oaks, Michigan, listed three suits valued at $225 each, two slacks valued at $55 each, one sport coat with slacks valued at $250 and a one-half-carat diamond studded tie tack at $1,000, among other property taken.

Cable TV Voted By Millbrae Board

Cable TV came to Millbrae last week, in a symbolic sense.

What actually happened was that Millbrae's City Council voted 5-0 to allow Nationwide Cablevision to install a home-sized television antenna and a garage-sized utility substation on a city-owned water-tank plot above La Prenda Drive.

By so voting, Councilmen kept their promise to bring better television service to Millbrae homes.

They also kept a promise to Nationwide Cablevision, to provide a site for the TV repeater station as part of the city's effort to bring cable TV to the community.

But last night, what they did mostly, was make people angry.

Residents of Alta Loma, La Prenda, and other streets near the water tanks had protested.

They had claimed the decision was "cut and dried," before the vote was taken, and they moaned agreement with this opinion when the five green lights of Millbrae's Council voting machinery, flashed on the wall.

Don Phillips, vice president of Nationwide, had tried to tell them that the 10 by 20 foot building and its small antenna would not be objectionable on the hilltop above their homes. He said it would be screened with redwood fencing, and could be placed nowhere else in the city, to provide good reception.

They did not believe him.

They said several other sites must be available, and demanded to know which "second-best" site would be selected if the water tank site location was nonexistent.

Citizens asked why their neighborhood had to be "commercialized" by the installation, complained that heavy trucks would interfere with their happiness and safety, and that the TV repeater station would attract and endanger their children.

One woman asked if the TV installation would be followed by "a string of hamburger stands where my daughter will hang out?"

Mayor James O'Connor said the "council has no control over where your daughter hangs out."

He said the city considers the cable TV system almost a public utility.

Councilman William Glang once asked if the residents would object to the cablevision installation any less, if it were disguised to look like another water tank?

S.F. Woman Sentenced

A 34-year-old San Francisco woman has been sentenced in South San Francisco Municipal Court for attempting to pass a stolen check in that city on August 24.

Sherry Pickwick, also known as Harriet Dewitt, received a six month jail sentence with all but 20 days of it suspended. She also was given one year probation, with an added two years summary probation and ordered to participate in a program of counseling and vocational training.

Bruno Apartment Rule Considered

The San Bruno Planning Commission will ask Deputy City Attorney Dermot Fitzgerald, to draw up an ordinance changing the minimum ratio of apartment units to lot size to one unit per 1250 square feet, instead of the present 1000 square feet.

This would cut the number of apartment unit for a typical 5000-foot lot from five units to four.

It may have an indirect effect in lowering the value of an apartment-zoned lot, and possibly lowering its assessed valuation as well.

"You'd better come through with some damn good reasons," Planning Secretary Melvin Bredlow, who is also building inspector, remarked.

"Are you going to campaign against it?" Commissioner William Cox asked.

"No—but a lot of others will!"

Planners hope to be able to set a public hearing on the proposed ordinance at their November 1 meeting.

The second change is a proposal of Fitzgerald to insure that firms required by the planners to have landscaping, keep it up. He felt that performance bonds are unworkable, since bonding companies would not grant them for such a purpose. He proposed a performance agreement. If the owner failed to keep up his landscaping, the city can do the work and put the charge on the tax bill.

Discussion on the city's sign ordinance was put off because of the crowded agenda.

Last night was not their time for making popular decisions. The Council had already approved a zoning variance to allow former Planning Commissioner Don Cahen to build an addition to his house at 1080 Helen Drive.

Objecting to the variance was Charles Yetter, who was mayor of the city when Cahen was on the Planning Commission. Yetter pointed out several legal reasons why the Council should not grant the permit, but Cahen and the Council found other reasons why they should.

Controversy Seen On San Bruno Plans

The November 1 meeting of the San Bruno Planning Commission is expected to be controversial.

There will be an application for a permit to reopen the pizza parlor in the Pacific Heights Shopping Center, to be known as "The Pub." This place was originally known as Me'n' Ed's.

Popular as a center for young people, it also has posed quite a police problem.

Then, developer Perry Liebman will be returning with a hearing on rezoning the controversial 6½-acre vacant site behind the Pacific Heights Shopping Center from commercial to planned development (PD). An application to rezone the site to garden apartments had been recently rejected by the City Council, largely because councilmen felt that the garden zoning failed to provide the city with enough design control.

Strong objections had also been voiced to the proposed density—175 units for 6½ acres. Whether the developer will be proposing fewer apartment units was not known to the planners this week. Commissioner William Cox urged that efforts be made by the planning staff to obtain Liebman's plans before the hearing, so that they can be studied.

Biggest project at the hearing, however, is sure to be Deane and Deane's 496-unit Sharp Park Condominium development—a development similar to townhouses, with two, three and four bedrooms. It would have three children's playgrounds, a ballfield, and a recreation center. It's sole entrance would be on Sharp Park Road, opposite Pacific Heights, although 119 of the units, and 48 of the 67 acres would be in Pacifica.

SSF Man Takes His Own Life

A 38-year-old South San Francisco man on disability Wednesday afternoon took his own life by hanging, police said.

The body of James Vince Lopardo, 38, of 571 Grand Ave., Apt. 1, was found by his brother Carl in the bedroom closet.

Police said the victim had used a rope attached to the closet's clothes bar. He was found at 4:15 p.m.

Authorities said they learned the victim had been depressed recently. There were no notes.

South S.F. Couple Dies in Accident

A South San Francisco couple was killed Wednesday in a two-car crash that required the victims to be freed from their vehicles by a fireman rescue team.

Dead on arrival at Mary's Help Hospital, Daly City, at 8:17 p.m. were George Francis Swan, 57, and his wife Lillian Flora, 50, of 230 Alta Loma Dr.

Injured, but reported in satisfactory condition there at the hospital, were Gus Stevens, 23, of San Francisco, driver of the second car, and Brian Paul Skinner, 17, of 394 Gardenside Ave., South San Francisco.

Hospital authorities said both received a broken jaw. Stevens also suffered a broken arm and Skinner a broken leg. Both also received other cuts and bruises.

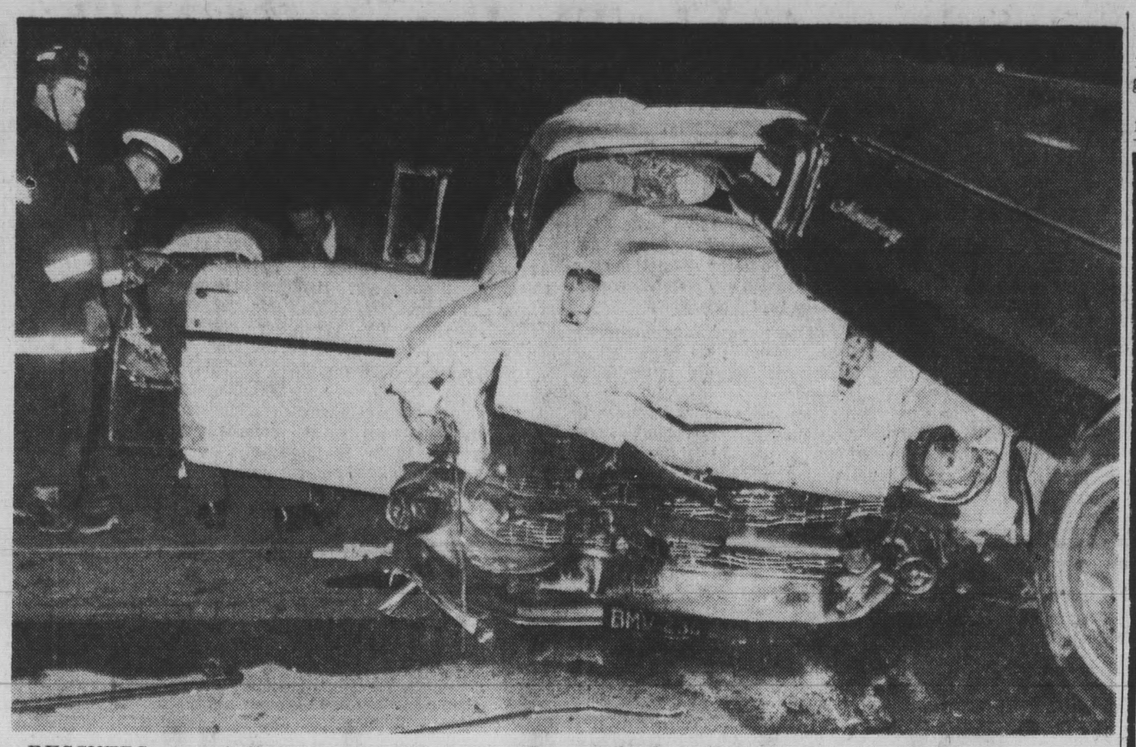
Police said they arrived at the site, Junipero Serra Boulevard and King Drive, to find the two cars resting in the grassy area at the northeast corner of the intersection.

According to the authorities' preliminary invetigations, the car driven by Stevens was northbound on Junipero Serra. The car driven by Swan was traveling east on King Drive, police said the northbound vehicle hit the other car in the side as it came off King Drive.

The firemen rescue unit spent nearly two hours at the scene, including extracating the victims and washing down the intersection. Firemen used crowbars to get the victims from the vehicles.

Police said the matter is still under investigation and upon completion a report will be forwarded to the district attorney's office for possible complaint issuance.

Police offer two possibilities as to how the accident might have happened. Either the car coming off King Drive, which is an arterial stop, didn't see the car traveling on Junipero Serra, or the car traveling on Junipero Serra was going at an excessive rate of speed.



RESCUERS struggled to save injured victims of this two-car crash in South San Francisco last week. Two of the victims were dead on arrival at Mary's Help Hospital. (Post Photo)

Guard Held In Shooting

A security guard at a South San Francisco firm was in the county jail after an incident Friday afternoon in which he allegedly fired a shot at a worker.

Police said they arrested William A. Wolf, 23, of San Francisco, at the Sussex Liquor Co., 291 Utah Ave., at 2:35 p.m. on suspicion of attempted murder.

According to police Wolf, a security guard at the plant, was reportedly had a difference of opinion with employe Daniel T. Delicino, 20, of Pacifica, as to how the rules and regulations of security should be enforced.

Police said that ill feelings and strong words had been exchanged in the past month between the two. On Friday afternoon, according to police, Wolf asked to see Delicino, at which time he displayed a .45 caliber pistol.

Delicino reportedly made a hasty retreat when he saw the weapon. Police said Wolf took a couple of steps and then firel a shot in Delicino's direction.

Police said Wolf was then retained by fellow workers.

Pacifica Woman Wins Suit

A San Francisco Superior Court jury has awarded a Pacifica woman $85,000 damages for the emotional trauma of seeing her two children burned in a cable car accident nearly four years ago.

Mrs. Judith Taylor, wife of a coast guardsman, received the award following a four-day trial before Judge Alvin Weinberger

Mrs. Taylor and her children, Patricia, now 10, and David, 3½, were riding on a cable car on Hyde Street December 3, 1967, when it crashed into a car. The car's gasoline tank was ruptured and burst into flame. Both children were severely burned, and David died of his injuries. Mrs. Taylor was slightly burned.

Robert Hutchinson, of the Joseph W. Cotchett law firm in San Mateo, represented Mrs. Taylor.

Cotchett said the award is the first he knows of made primarily on the basis of emofional trauma.

Boys' Club Fees Cut

Norm Trout, executive director of the South San Francisco Boys' Club, has announced that "membership fees through December 31 will be reduced to half price."

This fee will cover applicants through December 31. January 1, 1972 will start a new year and a return to the regular fee.

The Club program this fall will include Northern California Boys' Club Association competition in various sports and educational categories as well as special field trips. The Coin Club will continue and the Stamp Club meets every Saturday. There will also be some tutoring, according to director Trout. The Club is located at 201 West Orange Avenue.

Alcoholism Topic Of SOS Program

"Alcoholism," an illness present, but not often understood, in many families, will be discussed by Dr. Alfred Bochner, psychiatrist, at the fourth of a five-part annual S.O.S program sponsored by the Burlingame-San Mateo Chapter 54 of Parents Without Partners, Inc., tonight.

Parents Without Partners (PWP) sponsors the program as a community service to help people who are going through the trauma of divorce, widowhood, separation, or contemplating a divorce. The S.O.S. program serves as a yellow caution sign rather than a stop or go in its message to the public.

The free lecture, as well as the last of the series, will be held at Parkside School on consecutive Wednesdays from 8 to 10 p.m. The school is located at 1685 Eisenhower Street, (near the So. Norfolk Street-Nineteenth Avenue turnoff), San Mateo.

Dr. Bochner is engaged in private practice of psychiatry and psychoanalysis at the Stanford Professional Center in Palo Alto. He has extensive experience in the organization and operation of community health and community mental health facilities.

In addition, Dr. Bochner was a research associate at the Institute for the Study of Human Problems, Stanford University, until 1970, engaged in the studies of the effects of alcohol and drugs in the development of college students, and in follow-up studies of freshmen who seek psychotherapy in their freshman year.

There will be a question and answer period at the end of each program and a table displaying books and literature dealing with divorce and single life plus an information table on Parents Without Partners.

Fine Arts Series Set In Pacifica

A series of fine arts productions will soon be offered in Pacifica, beginning the first week in November.

The series of presentations will offer a widely divergent range of artistic expression and activities.

The opening program of the series, November 5, will feature guitarist George Sakellariou, at 8 p.m. at St. Andrew United Presbyterian Church, 1031 Valencia Way, in the Linda Mar area.

Other programs to be scheduled for the series include modern dance productions, classic and contemporary theater drama, Rock-country music sessions, children's programs, painting, photography and poetry presentations.

The fine arts series is being arranged through the Pacifica Fine Arts Council in conjunction with Intersection, the San Francisco Center for Religion and the Arts. The Rev. John Williams, executive director of Intersection, has described the purpose of the series as an expression of concern for the spirit and culture of the community.

"The arts are not decorations at the fringes of life, but activities essential to humanity . . . we are establishing a partnership with the arts which we hope will open opportunities for artists to be heard . . . and for us to listen to them," the Reverend Williams said.

SOMEONE SAID, "We shouldn't let the PTA go to the dogs," and up popped Sultan to help Ben Franklin (Colma-Daly City) Intermediate School PTA officers Mrs. Dallas O'Neil (right) and Mrs. Gloria Rodriquez (left) make the current drive for new members a growling success. "Time to Re-Member" is actually the unit's action-program theme, according to Mrs. Bobbie Coppock (not shown), membership chairman. (Post Photo)

M-H Guild Preps for Its 'Day'

"I want to extend a cordial invitation to members of the community to attend Mary's Help Hospital Guild Day at Serramonte on Tuesday, November 2," Shelly Mangini chairman of that special event, announced a few days ago.

Mrs. Mangini and the entire membership of the guild are preparing to take part in an extensive salute to the guild which is being sponsored by the shopping center and from opening until closing time for the complex the guild will be honored for its contribution to the Daly City hospital in the field of volunteer services and fund raising projects.

VOLUNTEERS, identified by their pink pinafores, will be stationed around the shopping center on Tuesday and a large congregation of them will be assembled at the Ranch Inn during the noon hour where a fashion show will be presented.

Mrs. Elwin Short and Mrs. Warren Price, co-chairmen of the fashion show luncheon which will be a segment of the day's activities, announced that reservations are still available for a donation of $5. For additional information about the show or to make your reservations call Mrs. Short at 755-5569.

Climaxing the events of the day will be the presentation of a number of gifts to guild contributors. According to Mrs. Mangini some lucky person will receive a 15 foot freezer filled with frozen foods, courtesy of Montgomery Ward and QFI, or a Sony portable TV donated by Macy's or an opportunity to go on a $150.00 shopping spree at McDonald's.

All profit from the day long observance is pledged to the hospital's coronary care unit, Mrs. Mangni affirmed.

MRS. EDWARD AVANZINO, chairman of the Westlake Catholic Women's Day at the Races, wants to remind all localites who are planning to attend the Bay Meadows outing with the group, that the date is November 3 and already tickets are going rapidly. To assure your being able to be in on the fun make your reservations immediately!

According to Mrs. Avanzino the $7.50 price of the ticket includes bus transportation to and from the track, admission to the races, a reserved seat in the Turf Club and a buffet luncheon in the Coach room. The bus will leave the Westlake Shopping Center at 11:15 a.m. and return late in the afternoon.

For more information call Mrs. Avanzino at 755-7959.

THE WESTLAKE Senior Citizens will hold their annual bazaar on Thursday, November 4 in the social hall of the Westlake Baptist Church, Elmwood Drive at Southgate.

According to Mrs. Frank Specht, publicity chairman for the senior citizen's club, there will be a wide variety of hand made gift items as well as many delectable cakes, cookies and other tasty offerings. Lovely jewelery, baby knits, house plants and an intriguing selection of white elephants also will be on sale.

Doors will open at 9:30 a.m. and shoppers are asked to drop by early in the day for the finest selection, Mrs. Specht said.

"SAM, YOU MADE the Pants too Long" lamented songstress Patti McClain during a hilarious moment at the fashion show and dinner sponsored by the North Peninsiula Circle for the Florence Crittenton home this past week.

Arthur Colman, owner of Arthur's of Westlake, the men's store which had provided the male fashions being modelled in the show, was the recipient of all Mrs. McClain's attention as she modelled her baggy clown's costume and sang the pathetic lyrics as a surprise treat.

The occasion proved to be generally a delight with lovely gowns from the Fashion of Westlake, colorful attire for men from Arthur's and the subtle wit of commentator Rolfe Peterson.

Only one bit of saddness marred the otherwise totally festive evening, Georgette of Westlake, who provided all the models with chic new coiffures for the evening, was unable to be on hand as illness in her family made a spur of the moment trek to Modesto a necessity.

AMONG THE "just returned localites" are Mrs. Esther Hall, Mrs. Lois Orent, Mrs. Marjorie Taber, Mrs. Joyce Thompson, Mrs. Olive Rubek and Mrs. Mary Chenevey, all members of Beta Sigma Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Apha International sorority.

The ladies were the Beta Sigma representatives to the Bay-Peninsula Council conclave held at Peluso's Sunol Valley Golf Club in Sunol, over the past weekend.

Delegates to the conference heard a variety of speakers including Mrs. Jeanne Brown of Fresno, the current California division president of the sorority.

THE ANNUAL Founder's Day-Reunion Tea of the San Francisco Alumnae chapter of the Alpha Iota Sorority, held a little more than a week ago, was one of the major topics of conversation at last Wednesday's meeting of the chapter. Hilda Anderson hosted the regular business session in her San Francisco home.

The reunion and tea, held the previous weekend, was in the home of Mrs. Alvin Neville, and among those present were the chapter's delegates to Sunday's regional conclave at Disneyland Hotel. Mrs. Blanche Whitehill, Mrs. Conrad Stail and Mrs. Kenneth Hansen.

Mrs. Vinton S. Stratton, President of the Friends of the Daly City Library announces that the second of the current series of book reviews under the chairmanship of Mrs. F. Lincoln Walter will be held Thursday at 10 a.m. in the Coral Room of the Westlake Library, 275 Southgate Avenue.

Guest reviewer, Mrs. Frances Keenan will present The Greening of America by Charles A. Reich.

Reich's book, a best seller this past year, is controversial.

Mrs. Frances Keenan, of San Francisco, who holds degrees from the University of Illinois and Columbia is making her second appearance before the group. She has had much success reviewing for the Literature Department of the California Club of California.

A former teacher, she says her greatest pleasures throughout her life have been reading and Little Theatre. Her other affiliations in the area are the Franklin Medical Center Auxiliary and the Olympic Club.

The social period previous to the review will be hostessed by Mesdames Winsor Josselyn and Albert M. Teglia. Following the review a no-host luncheon will be held for Mrs. Keenan at the Bunker Restaurant of the Cypress Hills Golf Course.

Reservations for lunch may be made that morning.

The USDA at Work

The consumer has come to place a good deal of trust in the little purple stamp, "USDA Choice."

He knows that meat bearing this mark is not as good as "prime" but is better than "good." But few shoppers seem to know what is behind these gradings and how inspectors arrive at the quality ratings.

In meat inspecting, carcasses are graded individually and the official grade stamp is applied to each carcass. Graders examine carcasses visually and no objective measurements are used. Pictures showing degrees of marbling of beef are provided as aids in determining quality.

Since 1965, the U.S. Department of Agriculture has required that carcasses be partially separated into hindquarters and forequarters so that the grader can see a section of the rib eye muscle, an important factor in determining grade.

Graders may use a clear plastic grid to measure the area of the rib eye and a ruler to measure thickness of fat.

Quality control in meat production goes back to production of the live animal. Standards for feeder and slaughter animals are designed to be correlated with carcass standards. So a Choice feeder steer has the potential to become a Choice grade slaughter steer, which can be expected to produce a U.S Choice beef carcass.

The USDA has specific physical and chemical tests for some products and has handbooks for official graders and inspectors. There are also models, color slides and photographs which help maintain uniform interpretation of grade standards.

For poultry, eggs and fresh and processed fruits and vegetables, inspectors certify the grade of a quantity of the product by checking a representative sample of the lot.

Poultry is sorted into grades by plant workers, then check-graded by USDA inspectors. Grading is visual.

Raw, ready-to-cook poultry rolls, roasts and logs have been graded since 1965. The grader examines the whole birds from which the roasts are made and checks during processing for removal of blood vessels, bone chips, and so forth.

Eggs are graded by plant workers, and the official grader spot checks the eggs as they are being packed and after packing. Mass scanning techniques now available have eliminated hand-candling. Graders check depth of air cell, condition of albumen and yolk and presence of blood spots. In mass scanning, large numbers of eggs are moved across a lighted area at the same time, and plant workers remove undergrades. The eggs are automatically sized.

Butter and Cheddar cheese are graded after manufacture. Official graders take samples of each batch of a continuous production run and examine them by sight, smell and taste. Flavor, uniformity of color, body and texture are considered. Color guides are available to check the color of butter.

For instant, nonfat dry milk, inspectors make sensory checks as well as a number of laboratory tests.

Most inspection of fresh fruits and vegetables is visual. Samples are checked for shape, degree of coloring and degree of defects or damage.

With the advancement of processing machinery, mechanical grading techniques are also being developed. Tomatoes are automatically sampled in bulk bins, refractometers are used to determine sugar content of both grapes and citrus fruits before processing, and peanut inspection equipment is highly sophisticated.

Processed fruits and vegetables are checked on a sample basis for color, uniformity of size, absence of defects and tenderness, texture and maturity. Flavor is also quality rated.

Terra Nova Topics

By Rockie Montenegro

An "underground" newspaper, written by TN junior Tom Edminster and TN Senior Bob Tassi, was circulated to the student body last week. Entitled "Dare To Struggle," the newspaper consists of two pages of mimeographed opinionated articles and miscellaneous items dealing with controversial issues.

Among the articles which appeared was one about Tony Russo by Edminster. Included was Russo's statement upon netering prison about the Pentagon Papers and an article by Tassi about the USS Coral Sea revolt. The actual petition circulated aboard the ship was reprinted.

There also were the lyrics and interpretation of a John Lennon song, "Power to the People," and a quote from Abraham Lincoln concerning the right of the people to rise up against a government. What turned out to be the most controversial article was a biting commentary on the Jesus movement, "Jesus Freaks — 'Where Do They Stand?" which caused the most student response. It was the only non-bylined article.

Edminster, who instigated and financed the publication of the paper, said he doesn't consider it an "underground newspaper." He said he believes an underground newspaper "presents news differently from that of the established media . . . it doesn't aim for journalistic objectivity."

Dare to Struggle is merely a way of expressing view points on issues that he feels are important, and to talk about issues that people may not have heard much about, he said. The introduction of Dare to Struggle states, "This paper is for you to read, to criticize, agree with, whatever, but, above all, to think about."

Sources used in the paper are compiled from several public newspapers and newsletters Edminster receives in the mail from various organizations. Although Tom is not a member of any outside organization, he is on many of the mailing lists. The information used for the Tony Russo story was from an Another Mother For Peace newsletter. The USS Coral Sea article was compiled from information from the SF Chronicle and a newspaper called SF GoodTimes.

So far, Edminster says, student reaction has been positive, with only limited criticism, mostly from the Jesus article, which accused a Bible study group, which he had been invited to observe, as "Actively engaging in what I call Spiritual Masturbation."

He wrote about his observations of the "self-righteousness, egomania, and arrogance" displayed by several members of the group, and later accused "each and every one" of the group of egocentricity and self-righteousness.

Persons critical of the article expressed beliefs that the author had judged everyone in the group by the actions he had observed from only a few of the group members. Another issue is planned soon, with a "Jesus Freak's defense" of the movement. They eventually hope to have it evolve into a bi-weekly paper.

NELL NORTON

Sugar 'n Spice

Good morning, good cooks.

Just a few more days to Hallowe'en. Do you have the costumes finished and a batch of goodies for any little goblins who might come knocking at your door?

I notice the children in my neighborhood have been busily drawing spooky pictures, cutting out pumpkins and black cats and filling the windows with fearsome looking creatures. They can hardly wait for Hallowe'en night.

In honor of the occasion I've been checking through my recipes to see if I could find something suitable. How about this salad? The carrots and raisins give it a Hallowe'en color.

HALLOWEEN SALAD

4 carrots
½ head of cabbage
4 slices pineapple
⅝ cup raisins
1 Tablespoon sugar
½ cup mayonnaise
1 Tablespoon pineapple juice

Peel and grate the four carrots. Grate or chop the cabbage fine and mix with carrots. Cut the four slices pineapple into small pieces and add to vegetables along with the fourth cup raisins. Combine the half cup mayonnaise, one tablespoon each sugar and pineapple juice. Pour over slaw. Mix well and chill.

What to serve with this salad? This beef and zucchini casserole would go nicely. Along with French bread and since it's Hallowe'en, pumpkin pie for dessert.

BEEF ZUCCHINI CASSEROLE

1 pound ground beef
6 medium zucchini
½ cup chopped onion
2 Tablespoons oil
½ cup cracker crumbs
2 teaspoons salt
pepper to taste
4 Tablespoons margarine
¼ cup flour
2 cups milk
1 cup grated yellow cheese

Wash the six zucchini and cut off ends. Cook whole in boiling salted water about 8 minutes. Drain and cut into half-inch slices. Cook the half cup chopped onion in two tablespoons oil for three minutes. Add the pound of beef, cook until slightly browned and pour off excess oil. Stir in the half cup cracker crumbs, one teaspoon salt and pepper to taste. Remove from heat.

Melt the four tabespoons margarine in saucepan, stir in the fourth cup flour, blend well. Stir in the two cups milk, remaining teaspoon salt and cook stirring until thickened. Add the cup grated cheese and stir until melted.

Place half the zucchini in a greased two quarter casserole. Add half the meat and half cheese sauce. Repeat layers. Bake 30 minutes in 350-degree oven. Serves 6 to 8.

Scalloped potatoes are usually baked in the oven. This next recipe prepares this old favorite in a skillet on top of the stove.

SKILLET SCALLOPED POTATOES

4 cups thinly sliced potatoes
2 Tablespoons butter
1 can cream of mushroom soup
two-thirds cup milk
½ teaspoon salt
pepper and paprika

Melt two tablespoons butter in skillet (Besure to use a skillet with a lid.) Place two cups sliced potatoes in skillet. Combine the can mushrooms soup, two-thirds cup each, milk and minced onions, half teaspoon salt and pepper. Pour half this mixture over potatoes. Add remaining potatoes and the rest of soup mixture. Sprinkle with paprika. Cover and cook over low heat about 40 minutes. If liquid starts to boil over, place handle of spoon between lid and skillet rim, to vent. Serves 4 to 6.

Attend Sickle-Cell-A-Thon

Mrs. Ben Etta Williams of Westmoor High School recently took 12 students to San Francisco's Harding Theatre on Divisidero Street, for Sickle-Cell-A-Thon, sponsored by radio station KDIA in conjunction with the Sickle Cell Anemia Research Foundation.

Mrs. Williams, an English and film Appreciation teacher at Westmoor High School in Daly City, along with twelve students from Westmoor's Black Student Union, attended this Sickle-Cell-A-Thon, and rendered their services.

During the period, 12 p.m. through 1 a.m., when well known celebraties were entertaining, Mrs. Williams and these students spent their time ushering, handling the concessions, answering telephones, and doing numerous other odd tasks. Although not all monies are in as yet, an approximate $30,000 has been pledged so far.

The S.C.A.R.F., which receives no federal funds, will make people aware that this disease does exist, and predominately in the Negro race.

Mrs. Williams believes she and her students benefits from this experience, and hopes this shows them that, if you really do care, it is possible to do something constructive.

WESTMOOR HIGH School girls gymnastic team, which is in its first year, will soon be competing against Serramonte High.

Competing at the event for Westmoor will be; Leslie Anderson, Charmaine Banks, Debbie Gentis, Jenny Horsman, Jan Johnson, Sandy McLennon, also Melanie McCamey, Jeanelle Perez, Thersa Trapani, Peggy West and Marilyn West, also with seniors Pat Schuster and Sharon Kahrau.

During the year they will compete in a total of six meets with schools in the Jefferson High School District.

These girls practice seventh period and compete after school on their own time.

THE WESTMOOR Actor's Factory membership was recently increased from nine to 16 when seven new members were selected from auditions on September 20 and 21.

The new members are Nancy Mackulin, Ron Macke, Pam Wildman, Pat Wildman, Scott Molver, Sandra Wells, and LaRonda Wirch.

The Actor's Factory is the Westmoor drama group that performs many different kinds of theater in repetory. They travel all over to present their performances.

Improvisation, pantomime, satire, and original plays are all performed at various times. Although the group is under the sponsorship of Mr. Kenneth Brown, it is student-run and student directed.

The more than twenty applicants were auditioned by the returning members of the group. Each one was required to prepare a pantomime. After these performances, which included such varied subjects as a flat tire repair, a cooking class, and a first date, the applicants were tested on their improvisational ability. Among other things, they had to make lightning-quick responses to emotions that were flashed at them. One had to be "Happy," "Sad", "Bored," and "Sensuous" in the span of five seconds!

The newly formed group is already at work on its new year of shows. They plan to start by performing improvisational skits for various Westmoor classes, and progress to their system of traveling repertory theater around November or December. They plan to augment last year's series of shows at high schools, grammar schools, convalescent homes, play festivals, and art shows by performing at Ghirardelli Square, and having their own two-hour "Factory Night" in the Little Theater at Westmoor.

Returning members are Sandra Hansen, Dennis Ullom, Michael Nicholson, Carl Kostolefsky, Jim Wells, Sue Jeppson, Colleen Murray, Pam Simcox, and Jeff Wilbur.

LINDA GERAS, a junior at Westmoor, has been the inspiration behind the formation of a colour guard of 24 girls.

Linda, a flutist in the marching band, has recruited the girls and helped train them with the help of Steve Long. Steve is a graduate of Westmoor, played trombone and baritone there and plays trombone in the music groups at Skyline College.

Outside of school, Steve has been a member of that outstanding drum and bugle corp, The Conquistadors, of South San Francisco. He is helping to bring the tradition of color guards from their work with drum and bugle corps to working with the marching band in high school at half time shows

Girl Scout Recruiter Is Bi-Lingual S.F. Man

Fernando Navarrete, a Spanish-speaking man employed by the San Francisco Bay Girl Scout Council as a community organizer, may be the only man in the area who is recruiting Girl Scout leaders.

"Girl Scouting is not expensive, at all," he recently said. "After all, one of the Girl Scout Laws is 'A Girl Scout is thrifty'."

Mr. Navarrete's project is being financed by the Mildred Anna Williams Fund as a demonstration project "to make the Girl Scout program more accessible to Mexican-American girls" but does not stop at that. He is involved with finding help for the Spanish-English speaking bi-lingual troops, which sometimes include girls from other girls ethnic groups.

The local troops he has been instrmental in organizing include the following: Colma Intermediate in Daly City: troop No. 173, a Cadette troop lead by Mrs. J. Jiminez and Mrs. A. Martinez (with Mrs. George Hidzick as consultant); Woodrow Wilson School in Daly City: troop No. 214, a Brownie troop lead by Mrs. E. Talavera, sponsored by Linda's Beauty Nook in Daly City.

At Holy Angel's Hall in Daly City, the Latino Club sponsors troop No. 582, a Junior troop, lead by Mrs. J. McClure and Mrs. I. Alfonso, presently looking for new leadership; at Parkview Scout House a troop is in the process of formation.

In South San Francisco, at the Martin School, troop No. 2216, Junior level, is lead by Mrs. E. Valdez and Mrs. Y. Bedolla; and at Spruce School, troop No. 1790 is lead by Mrs. K. Sylvia.

Bi-lingual leadership is always needed and he wants the community to know that adults who know both Spanish and English can be trained in Girl Scouting and they need not have a child in the troop to be able to be of service.

Serremonte High in Daly City is his focus at the present time, recruiting adults to help in the formation of a bi-lingual troop of high school-age girls.

Mr. Navarrete's wife, Beatiz, also works for the San Francisco Bay Girl Scout Council and they have four bays, age 18, 15, 12 and 9.

He is working for his Master's Degree in Spanish at San Francisco State but can be reached at the Brisbane office of the Girl Scout Council, 467-3330.

The Gold Platter in San Carlos has been completely remodeled — inside and outside. Since its completion three weeks ago, owners Andy and Ivan Dei Rossi have been receiving raves aplenty from their dining guests. Among the additions is the "Carlos Room," a beautiful banquet facility which is certain to be booked solid through the Holiday season. . . . A southern restaurant featuring southern-style cooking and owned by Italians? Yes, this is the case at the New Southern restaurant in South San Francisco, where Reno and Julio Donati and Nick Sbarra are the 'colonels.' Although several continental dishes are listed on the extensive menu, it is such favorites as Chicken and Dumplings and Southern Fried Chicken that have made this restaurant famous over the past 40 years. . . . Dessert tip: Old-fashioned Southern Pecan Pie (topped with whipped cream), as served at Jon Coleman's Barbecue Inne in San Mateo. Based on an old Baton Rouge recipe, this dessert is a perfect way to complete a meal of barbecued meat. . . . Eastern Prime Rib is served only on weekends at Cardonis' Half Moon Bay Inn. This is only one of several palate pleasers on a dinner menu which includes steaks and a variety of sea foods.

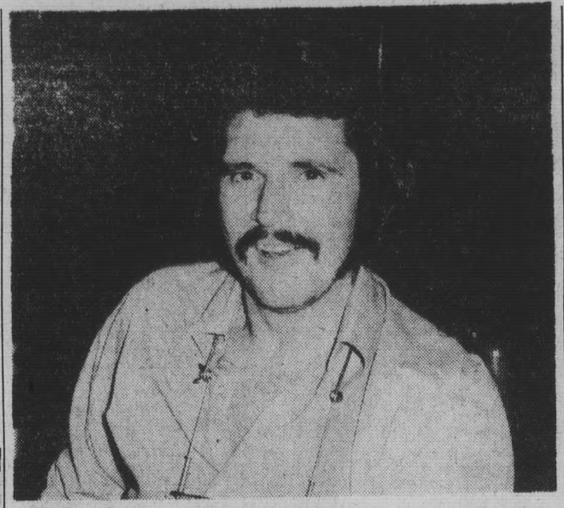
HIGHLY SUCCESSFUL—The Kirby Stone Company comes to the Miyako Hotel's Garden Bar November 2 for five weeks. With the newest vocal and instrumental sounds, the group is eminently listenable, their jokes are funny, and they give three shows nightly except Sunday and Monday.

Park Ave. Tours Bonus Package

If you're heading for Nevada for a short stay, it would be well worth your while to first call one of the Park Avenue Tours offices (four in the Bay Area). That is, if you're interested in saving money. Park Avenue Tours has numerous bonus packages available, with cash, food and cocktails being presented upon your arrival. You can go up and back in the same day, or stay overnight in a pre-arranged hotel or motel at reasonable rates. Plus, you will be in the heart of the "action" areas. Trips are available to Reno, Lake Tahoe, or Las Vegas. . . . Nine private banquet rooms are available for special functions at the Villa Chartier. The beautiful Winchester East and West room, which accommodates 300 or more persons, has its own dance floor and bar, and may also be sectioned off for smaller groups. The menu, featuring traditional favorites, has been designed to please every taste. . . . A. Sabella's at Fisherman's Wharf is an ultra-plush dining establishment frequented by visiting tourists as well as Bay Areans. Owned by Lucien Sabella, a legendary name in San Francisco restaurant circles, the restaurant provides three levels of well-appointed accommodations. A vista view of the bustling Wharf activities is an added attraction for those dining here.

Ben. Franklin For Prime Rib

Prime Rib is the Monday and Wednesday special in the Greenwillow dining room of the Benjamin Franklin Hotel. Served during luncheon and dinner at the same price ($2.75), the prime rib is just one of several Chef's Specials created by Executive Chef Tom Delano. The specials, which are changed daily, are in addition to the regular a la carte menu. Some items begin at $1.95 . . . Hot and cold hors d'oeuvres are an every-evening attraction during the "Happy Hours" at Bruno's in downtown San Mateo. Owner-chef Bruno Fava personally prepares the tasty tidbits, and the plankmen are kept busy pouring the 50-cent cocktails. "Happy Hours" range from 4:30 p.m. to 6:30 p.m., Mondays through Saturdays . . . The roster of Peninsula diners that comprises the backbone of Vince's Italian and Sea Food clientele is articulate about its loyalty to the fine quality of the food and its moderate prices. The accent is on seafoods and Italian dishes . . . People are always asking us where they can find new and unusual pizzas, and we keep telling them there's only one place to find pizzas, that are new and unusual: Romano's Italian restaurant (Rockaway Beach, Pacifica), owned by the affable Enrico Romano, who has spent his entire restaurant career perfecting the art of pizza preparing. No wonder he has been dubbed "The Shah of Salami" and "The Archbishop of Anchovies" . . . Phil Lehr, creative owner-host of the Steakery in downtown San Francisco, is honored for his culinary skill in a big photo story in the current issue of a prestigious national magazine. Singled out for special praise is Lehr's superlative new specialty: Steak Shallot, Armanino.



RECORDING ARTIST—Joe Cannon, a well-known television performer and lounge headliner, is currently marqueed in the downstairs lounge of Burlingame's unique Showboat. Joe, who arrived in the Bay Area direct from a smash stint at "The Greek's in Manhattan Beach, entertains from 9 p.m. nightly, Wednesday through Sunday.

Celebration Held At Doros

Harry and Flow Rice celebrated the birth of their first grandchild — a girl for daughter Mrs. Ronald Zolezzi, born at Sequoia Hospital in Redwood City, with a dinner at Doros in San Francisco. Rice is the ace publicist for SF's Embassy Theater. . . . Ted Huber is the new weekend plankman at Yolanda's Terminal Cafe in South San Francisco. Ted, a native of Wisconsin, is a 17-year veteran of the food and beverage industry . . . Frank and Fannie Torres, who own and operate Torres Beach Hotel-Restaurant in Montara (just south of Devil's Slide on Coast Highway One), suggest that if you prepare abalone at home you take great care to pound it in a suitable fashion. "Never whack away at it like a carpenter wielding a hammer," says the knowledgeable Torres. "It must be done with finesse." Believe it or not, he recommends the use of a Coke bottle because "the bottom is just the right shape" . . . Ernie's Liquors president Don Althoff entertained his office staff for luncheon at Bertolucci's restaurant in South San Francisco.

BRIGHT LIGHTS BY LLOYD JOHNSON

Off Broadway Moves To New Broadway Site

The Off Broadway, one of the pioneer topless clubs in North Beach, has relocated at 430 Broadway, formerly Carol Doda's Club. . "Hairs To You," a musical group starring Steve Huff, Gary Morris, Phil Parkinson, resident comic Branko Pudarich and leader Eddie Belasco, have joined the show. Continuous shows and no cover charge. . . . Debjay's is an elegant nitery in Belmont where live music and dancing reign supreme every night of the week. Top musical talent is always showcased here. Currently taking the honors is a group called The Sound Barrier, who take over the spotlight Wednesdays through Sundays. Club owner Dan Boyd brings in other top-name groups from the Bay Area to play for dancing on Monday and Tuesday nights. . . . The Cisco and Boston Mason Show returned to the lounge of Russo's in San Bruno. The outstanding unit, which comes direct from a tour of the Nevada circuit, can be heard playing dance sets every Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights. Vince Russo is only days away from the grand opening "renaming" celebration of his restaurant — The Distillery. . . . Hard Tymes drew record crowds over the weekend at The Putter in Burlingame. This well known Peninsula "action" spot provides live music and dancing every night of the week.

Finocchio's Elton Paris Big Hit

The humor of lanky Elton Paris, one of the hits of the new "Hello, Dolly" revue at Finocchio's, sometimes catches ringsiders off guard, as he de-glamorizes himself in an outfit of tennis shoes and sweater. But when the audience realizes that much of his act is a put-on, they enter into the spirit of the fun . . . Tony and Manny, the sports-minded plankmen at the Lord Fletcher Inn, Atherton, are even-up on predicting the outcome of this season's pro-football games. However, the tie-breaker has to be when the 49ers ventured to St. Louis for an encounter with the Cardinals . . . If you've dined at some of the top North Beach restaurants on the famous "Joe's Special," you'll be pleased to know that at the Shirt Tail in Palo Alto, you can enjoy the same Italian dish. It's made with ground sirloin, mushrooms, spinach and eggs, sauteed with fine herbs. Order a carafe of their excellent house wine. Magnifico! . . . Those handsome new wine carafes at Lew Lehr's Steak House, in San Francisco's Marina District, are collector's items. Specially crafted in Italy, they serve with a full liter or one-half liter of Lehr's fine red or white dinner wines.

Josef Mullich For Reservations

The man to call for reservations for special dinner parties at Nick's, The Papagayo Room and The Moonraker is Josef Mullich, who manages all three of these Nick Gust-owned restaurants located on the shoreline of Pacifica at Rockaway Beach. Breakfast, luncheon and dinner offer strapping platefuls to sharpen appetities at Nick's. Outstanding dishes are Chicken Livers (sauteed with mushrooms) and Veal Scallopini Marsala (choice pieces of veal sauteed with fresh mushrooms and garden herbs blended together). Nick's Special is the Prime Rib of Beef au Jus Dinner . . . The Papagayo Room features a notable variety of Mexican dishes, all of which are served by flashing-eyed senoritas dressed in colorful costumes . . . Dinner at The Moonraker is an unforgettable visual experience, for the dining room surveys the dramatic panorama of the Pacifica ocean. The dinner menu affords several choices of Continental entrees, fish specialties and many a la carte selections . . . Time-tested favorites at Scotty Campbell's, an award-winning restaurant in Redwood City, are Prime Rib of Beef (served regular or English cut) and Beef Brochette Flambe, both prepared under the aegis of Sal and Abel Sandoval. All dinners are served with choice of soup or salad and garlic bread. Heading the list of dessert favorites is Maerd Eip, a delicate cheesecake topped with brandy-flavored cherries.

Villa Coffee House Open 24 Hours

The Villa Coffee House, which is open 24 hours a day serving breakfast, lunch and dinner, is at the beck n' call of local business people, theater goers, travelers, and Villa Hotel guests, alike. The menu reaches every preference, from a short stack to a juicy New York steak. In the Villa Lounge, the Charlie Blackwell Trio provides dance music from 9 p.m., and don't worry about a shortage of floor space. The room has been atmospherically designed and is complete with custom-made furniture . . . Saturday, November 6, should be an unusually busy day for Ken Parrett, co-owner of The Red Cottage. That's the day Stanford will be hosting the Bruins of UCLA, and Parrett will be busy greeting a large following of fans and old friends from Southern California. The event, which takes place every two years, always assures the Menlo Park restaurant of being capacity filed during the Saturday luncheon and dinner hours . . . The impressive menu at The Franciscan, located next to Pier 43½ on Fisherman's Wharf, lists several entrees considered to be house specialties. Bouillabaise a la Marseillaise, the Crab Cioppino and Grilled Filet of Halibut Steak are among the favorites.

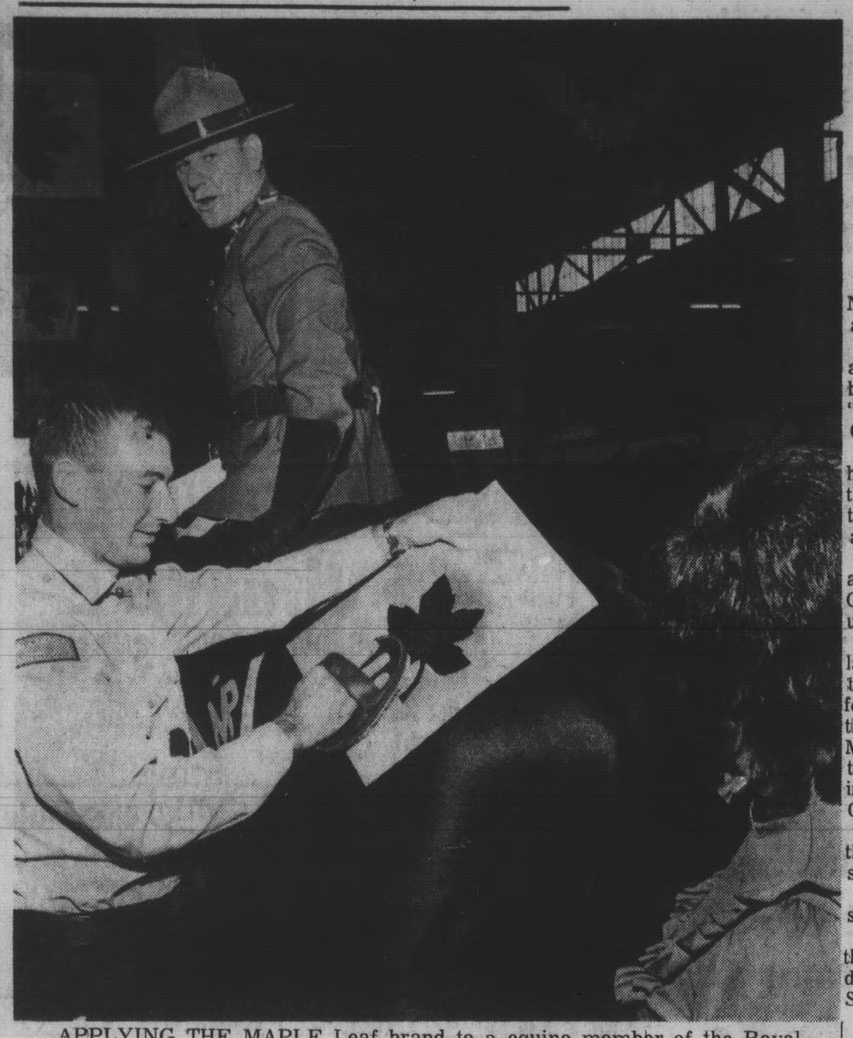
Canadian Mounted Police Star in Grand National Show



APPLYING THE MAPLE Leaf brand to a equine member of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police drill team is Sgt. Marvin Stedel as Sgt. Orville Smith and Carolyn Bergamaschi look on. The Mounties will star in the 1971 Grand National October 22-31 at Daly City's Cow Palace. The Mounties will perform their famous Musical Ride, a series of complex mounted parade movements performed to a musical background. Also featured at the Cow Palace arena show are world championship rodeo cowboys, trick riders, clowns and Miss Grand National (Post Photo)

By FRANK LaPIERRE

It was reminiscent of an old Nelson Eddy-Jeanette McDonald movie.

There, riding into the main arena of the Cow Palace atop 33 black horses, were the famed "musical riders" of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

Even the perfectly matched horses couldn't hold a candle to the handsome "Mounties" in their red tunics, blue trousers and Smokey-the-Bear hats.

The precision parade riders are part of the ten day 1971 Grand National show that got under way last Friday.

And the press was out in force last week to catch a glimpse of the daredevil acrobatics performed on horseback, Wilbur the movie dog, bronc busters, Mounties and other attractions the general public will see during this, the 27th year of the Grand National.

There is undoubtedly something for everyone at this year's show.

But last week the Mounties stole the show.

Led by Inspector Cliff Morin, the troop pranced about on the dirt-covered arena floor while Staff Sergeant Ralph Cave explained the colorful ceremonies.

This was the fourth time in some 30 years the Mounties had come to town — the last such performance by the lawmen was five years ago.

Emcee Cy Taillon said the theme of this year's Grand National is "Peace and true brotherhood among men."

He traced the history of cooperation between Canada and the United States over the many years, noting the Maple Leaf flag of Canada and Old Glory had always flown side by side in peace.

Another highlight of this year's Grand National is Elaine Kramer, who guides six unhitched horses through their paces (including jumping over two hurdles) while riding Roman-style.

Cow Palace manager Lex Connely's daughter is one of the trick riders known as the "Blackouts." They perform a variety of bone-jarring feats, some in partial darkness.

More than $1 million in prize-winning animals will be exhibited and sold this year at the exhibition which draws agricultural people from throughout the nation.

For the bronc and bull riders the Cow Palace performance is the "cut off" for the year's shows.

Anything they do after the Grand National is credited—pointwise—next year.

There is also a Morgan Horse Division this year which has drawn some 1,910 entries to date from throughout the state.

The most dramatic event is the World Championship Jumper Sweepstakes with its purse of $15,250, Connely said.

And Shirley Sawyer's champagne-while-you-bid auction of top breed champs is another "first" for the show.

Cy Taillon will again announce this year's show as he has done for the past three decades. Taillon has emceed every major event of this kind in the country, plus several in foreign countries, including the Royal Australian in Sydney.

Two Youths Captured, Charged With Auto Theft

A 17-year-old Daly City boy and a 15-year-old San Francisco youth were captured by Highway Patrolmen early on Thursday but a third youth escaped in a grove of eucalyptus trees in Burlingame after their stolen car was stopped by two Highway Patrol cars.

Sgt. Thomas L. Montague reported he became suspicious of the car near Hillsdale Boulevard after he observed it changing from lane to lane and changing speed near Hillsdale Boulevard. Although Montague stopped the car once, it took off again.

When Montague, with the help of Patrolmen L. D. Waldon and Douglas R. Hayden, stopped the vehicle a second time in Burlingame, the three occupants leaped out, and the car, with its motor still running, backed into Montague's patrol car, caving in the right front fender.

The two captured youths were taken to the Hillcrest Juvenile Hall after they claimed someone picked them up in San Francisco and they had driven to Palo Alto and were returning home.

Charged with auto theft and possession of stolen property was Alfredo M. Zuleuta, 17, of 115 Flournoy Street, Daly City. Booked on the same charges in addition to leaving a car unattended with the motor running and the brakes not applied was Rudy N. Fiel, 15, of San Francisco.

Bruno Peak Hearing

Mr. Maurice K. Hamilton, Chairman of the San Mateo Local Agency Formation Commission, has set November 3, at 2 p.m. at the Daly City Hall for a continued sphere of influence hearing concerning San Bruno Mountain.

This meeting will provide the principal land owner of San Bruno Mountain, the Crocker Land Company, an early opportunity to make an official public presentation of its current plans, reports, and data.

It is expected that the city positions and a Commission staff report will be presented at a later date after reviewing the material presented by the Crocker Land Company.

S.S.F. Man Fined $500

A plea of no contest to a reduced charge of theft resulted in a $500 fine for Dennis Joseph Conand, employe of a South San Francisco liquor distributing firm.

Conand was arrested August 5 on a charge of burglary when police staked out the firm after receiving information by the Sussex Company, Ltd., 291 Utah Avenue, that they suspected an employe was taking liquor.

The North County Municipal Court sentence also included one year summary probation, a suspended 30 day county jail term and $250 of the $500 fine suspended. With court costs, the total fine came to $315.

Grand National Cowboys Corral a Runaway Bull

Cowboys roped an escaped Brangus bull from a moving car Sunday as the 1800 pound steer ran down busy Geneva Avenue in Daly City after escaping from its pen at the Palace.

The bull, a Grand National entry by the University of California at Davis, managed to get out of its pen about 7:30 p.m. and run into the busy street that borders San Francisco and Daly City.

One cow puncher trying to stop the hefty beefer got tangled in a rope tied around the bull's neck and was dragged almost three blocks. He escaped with minor cuts and bruises.

Police said the bull managed to keep from colliding with cars as it made its dash for freedom.

At the corner of Geneva and Talbert Street — five blocks from the Cow Palace — the car-riding cowboys managed to get their ropes on the bull and stop him.

They tied their catch to a nearby utility pole while awaiting arrival of a cattle truck.

It took five men almost a ralf hour to "convince" the bull to get into the truck for the return trip to its temporary quarters at the Grand National livestock show now underway at the Cow Palace.

H.M.B. Police Arrest Trio

Three youths were arrested Monday by Half Moon Bay police after an officer became interested in the light reflected from a beer can in the car.

Inspection of the vehicle produced several bags of a greenish material and a switchblade knife, police said.

Arrested for possession of marijuana and possession of alcoholic beverage in an open container were Richard M. Harper 22, of San Francisco; Timothy E. Scherer, 19, of San Francisco; and the driver, Charles J. Murphy, 19, of 75 Lausanne Street, Apartment 2, Daly City. Murphy was also charged with possession of the knife.

Bucs Made Giants Look Good

Those Pirates certainly did make the Giants look good, didn't they? We mutilated the World Champs nine out of 12 in the regular season, and met them in the playoffs in the midst of a horrendous slump and with Willie McCovey and Bobby Bonds crippled.

A healthy, out-of-slump Giant team might have swept the Orioles four straight. Don't forget, even in the midst of their batting slump, the Giants man-handled Steve Blass, who absolutely baffled the Baltimores. Of course, the Orioles were due for a slump. No team wins 16 straight without at least a minor one. And in a World Series, a minor slump is all it takes. As you may recall, before the Giants went into their late-season big one, they had a moderate five game win streak going. In averaging only about four hits a game for the last five games of the Series, the Orioles did just about what the Giants were doing for about the last three WEEKS of the season.

Another similarity is that Baltimore was missing its big power swinging first baseman, Boog Powell, just as the Giants were missing their big, power swinging first baseman, McCovey.

Oh, Powell and McCovey were around, all right, but their hands and legs, respectively, weren't, and that made a difference.

But we don't want to denigrate what the Pirates did. With the pitching staff they had on paper — especially after their 19-game winner came up with a sore elbow and a big mouth — they had guts even showing up for the Series. And besides, like we said, whatever the Pirates did to the Orioles could only make the Giants look good — and give them a lot of hope for the future.

IN CASE YOU'RE INTERESTED, the unsung heroes of the Series were Jose Pagan and Jackie Hernandez. No matter what the "media men" try to lead you to believe, it was Pagan, not Clemente, who drove in the winning run of the Series. He also played very well afield, and in fact played well in all the games in which he participated. Hernandez hit reasonably well for a weak hitting shortstop, and played flawless if not always fancy ball in the field. Pittsburgh's left side of the infield, as a matter of fact, made only one error in the Series (Richie Hebner), while the vaunted Oriole left side committed five.

And, oh yes, you "faithful" Giant fans, don't ever let us hear you screaming again, about how the Giants choke with men on base. Our new World Champs stranded an average of nine men a game during the Series, most of them in scoring position with less than two outs. The Orioles didn't do a bad job of "choking," either. As it turns out, maybe leaving men in scoring position with less than two outs is part of the game, and maybe fans should more often credit the pitching or defense of the enemy than label their heroes as choke artists.

AS FOR OAKLAND, what can we say, except maybe the purpose they served was making the Giants AND the Pirates look that much better.

Or perhaps Oakland's failure lay in what White Sox pitching coach Johnny Sain told a Sporting News reporter earlier in the season when speaking of Vida Blue: "The book of baseball is full of 21-year-old pitchers who won a flock of games. Now it becomes a matter of how Vida handles pressure, tension, consistency.

"The men I think who handle pressure are Sandy Koufax, Warren Spahn, Bob Gibson and Whitey Ford. If Vida can handle all that goes on surrounding the game, then he has the stuff to rank with the people I mentioned."

With the exception of Ford, though, who had to handle the tension of a World Series when he was 21 (in 1950), none of the men mentioned by Sain had to deal with such tension until they were much more mature men. Even Ford didn't have to undergo it for a whole season (he was up for only part of it), and was then spared more of the same when he was inducted into the army for two years after 1950 and came out a mature man. But Blue did get mighty edgy toward the end of the season, and it showed in his record. Without that one day of rain and a mentally prepared Blue, it might have been the A's losing to the Pirates.

BLUE'S RELATIVE collapse in the final stages of the campaign did much to substantiate season-long proclamations of Detroit's southpaw Mickey Lolich that he was a better pitcher than Blue. Pitching for an apparently inferior team, Lolich had more wins than Blue (25-24), completed more games (29-24), threw more innings (376-312), and snatched away the strikeout title (308-301). Blue couldn't even manage to equal the American League shutout mark of nine, even though he had eight blanks at almost mid-season.

Of course we all know who holds the American League shutout record. None other than the greatest hitter in baseball history, Babe Ruth!

Ruth tossed his nine zips at the age of 21. Yes, he was one of those kids Sain was talking about, one of the 21-year-olds who won a flock of games at a tender age and then faded from sight when they couldn't stand the pressure. Only in Ruth's case, he faded from sight as a pitcher because he could stand the tension even better as a hitter.

RUTH'S AND BLUE'S RECORDS as 21-year-old hurlers are remarkably similar. Pitching for a pennant winning Boston in 1916, Ruth had a 23-12 record with a league leading ERA of 1.75 (Blue's was 1.81). He pitched 323.2 innings and completed 23 games. And of course, there were those nine shutouts. Blue outclassed the Babe only in the strikeout-walk category, as Vida had those 301 K's and only 88 walks, while Ruth checked in with 170-118.

The Bambino was also a remarkable 20-year-old chucker. In 1915, with another pennant winner, he had an 18-8, 2.44 year. And Babe did something which Blue hasn't had the opportunity to do yet, but which will be hard to measure up to.

At age 22, with a second place team, he had a 24-13, 2.01 season, and led the league in complete games with 35! He tossed in six shoutouts just for fun.

After that, the Babe started doing something he was REALLY good at. Hitting. But in the succeeding two seasons, as a part-time hurler, he had 13-7, 2.22 and 9-5, 2.97 years. He ruined his lifetime ERA in subsequent years with infrequent "guest" appearances, but he still finished with a lifetime ERA of 2.28 and a win-loss record of 94-46, a .671 winning percentage.

His World Series record? Read it and weep, Vida. He was undefeated (3-0) and had an ERA of 0.87, which is the second best in history.

We don't know exactly what all this proves, except that maybe Blue is going to be a helluva hitter, or that Babe Ruth was the greatest baseball player who ever did or ever will live.

AND BLUE REMINDS us of our absolutely last Monte Malapropism of the gone baseball season. Right toward the end of

SSF Blanks Rams, TN Wins

By JERRY LITTRELL

As a result of one of the biggest upsets in the 10-year history of the North Peninsula League, South San Francisco High School is all alone in first place with a perfect 3-0 conference mark.

The methodical Warriors remained the league's only undefeated team with a 27-0 whitewash of Westmoor High School Friday at Clifford Field. Five hours earlier, however, the Terra Nova Tigers upended El Camino, 13-7, thus creating a three-way tie for second place and it yet could be anyone's race.

In other NPL action, Oceana downed winless Serramonte, 31-0, while Half Moon Bay blasted Jefferson, 49-20.

The Tiger victory over the pre-season favorite Colts was no fluke. They earned the victory with sound tactics and good defense against a Colt squad that put together its most impressive offensive outing of the season, play-wise.

The Colts, as a matter of fact, opened the game as if they would blow the Tigers right off the Camino field. Starting on their own 30, EC quickly marched 70 yards in just six plays with fullback Tom Kennedy plunging over from the one. But from then on Terra Nova took over center-stage.

John Racanelli fired a 23-yard touchdown pass to end Gary Pruitt who made two great fakes, to tie things up at 7-all. It stayed that way until four minutes were left in the game.

Terra Nova was driving on the 50 when Racanelli's pass was intercepted on the one-yard line by Steve Rosa. Two plays later John Salomon got the Tigers the ball back with an interception on the 15 and runback to the five. Halfback Louis Sanchez took three handoffs before he slipped over right tackle behind a block by Norm Lacey for the winning score.

The Colts played without halfback Dave Alvarez but his stand-in, Joe Cortez, who scored EC's only TD the previous week, did a good job with 84 yards rushing.

South City just simply physically beat the Rams from tackle to tackle most of the game in grinding out the victory. Hank Love led the rushers with 76 yards but it was a defense that completely shutoff the Ram aerial attack that was the difference. Junior Rob Goldstein and senior Mike Balestieri personally halted the passing combination of Kearns-to-McLennan.

Love popped over from the one for the first score and junior quarterback Rhod Wallace ran over from the three before defensive tackle Lynn Simmons picked up a Westmoor fumble and ran 53 yards for the backbreaker.

Jeff Yerian's 21-point effort highlighted the HMB afternoon as the Cougars stayed in contention with the 49-20 win. Yerian tallied on a 66-yard pass play and runs of 15 and 4 yards as well as three PATs. Jeff's Chinto Fonseca had his short game intact completing 17 of 35 for 157 yards.

It took them six games to do it but the Sharks finally got a touchdown from the offense — five in fact — in the 31-0 win over Serramonte. Oceana switched end Tom Harper to fullback and the 210-pound senior tallied twice on four-yard runs to pace Oceana.

Scouting Pays Off

Capuchino Tripped by S.M.

By CHRIS STAVE

Ask San Mateo High football coach Buz Williams if scouting pays off.

Williams felt that his defense could hold Capuchino in Friday's game at Capuchino. But attacking Cap's own defenders would be a thornier problem. Cap had just come off a great defensive effort against Burlingame.

Williams' Bearcats were forwarned about the holes left by Capuchino's overshifting defense, and they took advantage of them, winning 28-12 and moving into a first place mid-Peninsula League tie with Crestmoor at 2-0.

"We scouted them pretty carefully," Williams said. "We knew there would be some soft spots. There are soft spots in every defense. They tended to overshift to the strong side, and when you do that, you leave something open."

Something must have been open; 'Cat backs Keith Nakada and Larry Croon scampered for huge yardage in the first half. And after that first half, the result was no longer in question, because the 'Cat defense was busy holding the Mustangs to zero first downs.

Williams had decided before the game that he would rather kick off than receive, figuring that Cap would be kept in the hole. That's just the way it happened.

Cap took the kickoff, ran four plays and punted to the San Mateo 47. The 'Cats ran seven plays to the Mustang 25, and Croon speedily unreeled the rest from that point for a 6-0 lead.

Cap traded fumbles and punted to the San Mateo 14, whence Nakada and Croon started doing their thing all over again, working their way to the Cap 44 in 10 plays, two of them on fourth downs.

At that point, quarterback Jack Lindsey sent Mike Walker flying down the left sideline and hit him with a perfect peg for the score.

The next three times the Mustangs had the ball they dribbled it into the grateful arms of San Mateo defenders, and the Bearcats took advantage of that largesse with still more Nakada-Croon assaults.

The duo, with a little help from second quarterback Bill Smith, managed to take eight plays to score from the 27, eating up yards and clock at about the same rate. Smith got the last five on his own for a 20-0 halftime lead.

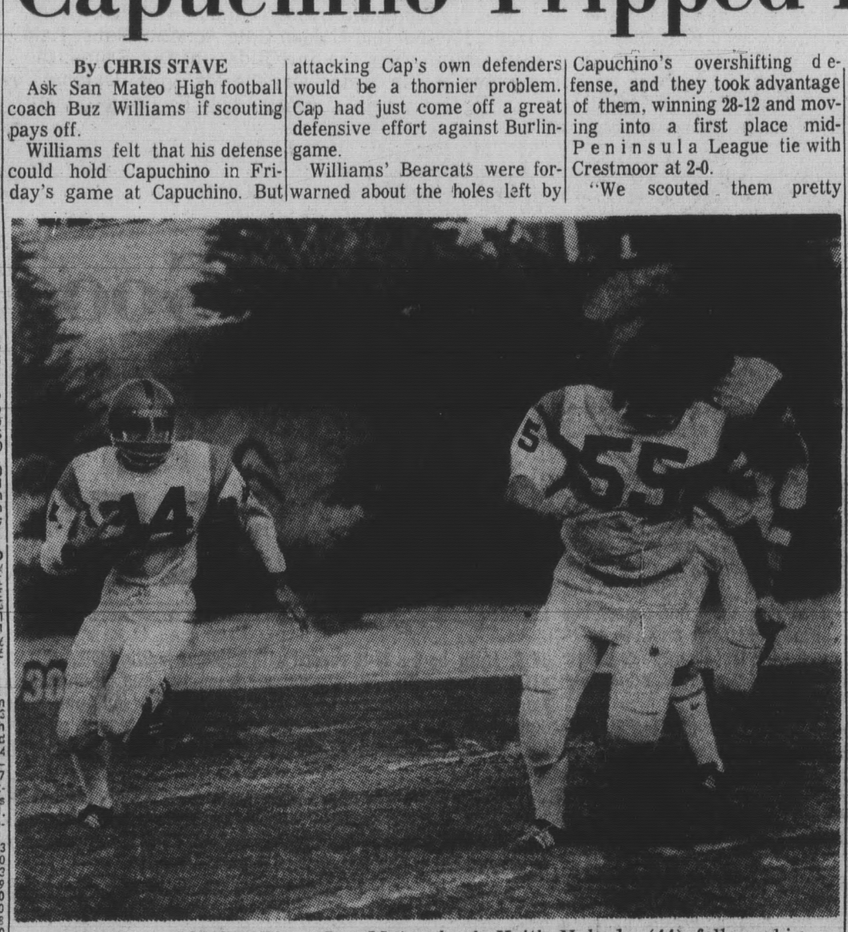
The 'Cats made it 38-0 in the third quarter when defensive end Dennis Haysbert picked off a Ken Swan sideline pass at the Cap 11 and romped in.

This was the last San Mateo scoring, and just about the last thing the 'Cats did well — with a four-touchdown lead, they decided to sit back and watch the rest of the game in comfort, which cost them.

On one series, after Cap had held San Mateo at the 'Cat 16, a gaggle of greenshirts swarmed over 'Cat punter Larry Giffin, who had just gone into orbit after a high snap, and rammed the hurried punt down his throat. Cap's Rick Massei recovered at the one, and two plays later Cap's Shane Graham scored.

The Mustangs' final TD was a landmark of the season — their first good sustained scoring drive. And it was a beauty, going 80 yards in 13 plays.

Cap backs Steve Sbragia, Paul Accinelli and Charlie Burwell got good chunks of yardage wide on pitchouts, leaving San Mateo wide open for Graham's off-tackle dive, which carried 34 yards to the Bearcat 20. Burwell packed the last 10 yards.



IN GOOD COMPANY — San Mateo back Keith Nakada (44) follows big Jim Grimsley (55) around end after taking pitchout from Jack Lindsey (background) in Friday's 28-12 win at Capuchino.

Crestmoor Wins!

One Point Edge Over Feisty Hillsdale

By STEVE JOHNSON

Sports

When a team is averaging somewhere over 42 points a game, and giving up just under seven, it's plain common sense to figure that sort of thing just has to end sometime.

For Johnny Browne and his Crestmoor Falcons, that time came Friday against feisty Hillsdale on the Burlingame field.

The Falcons, who had completely destroyed four consecutive opponents going into that encounter with the Knights (including a 35-0 butchering of Mills in last week's Mid-Peninsula League opener), finally found out that life isn't always so easy.

But when all else failed, Crestmoor's brutal defense rose up to stop Hillsdale when the big play was needed the most, and the Falcons took their fifth straight victory without a loss by the slightly less than overwhelming score of 9-8.

"They really did a fine job on us," said a thankful Browne after the game. "We just were not able to do anything, amking just about every mistake we could possibly make, but I think their defense was more responsible for that than anything else."

The Knights started off by running straight through Crestmoor. Everything seemed to work. It was a little too much for Crestmoor to comprehend and it took the stunned Falcons time to get adjusted. But not before the Knights' Steve Myers had blasted over from the one midway through the first quarter for the first score of the jam deep in Hillsdale territory, the Knights denight.

After a Falcon punt had put Hillsdale in a big cided to play it a little tricky and solve that crowded feeling with a quick kick on third down. Nobody on the Crestmoor defense was fooled.

Big Emmett McCourt came charging through to swat the attempted boot back out of the end zone for a safety.

The Falcons took the ensuing kick and went for a score, with Steve Roller bulldozing in from the four to complete a four-play, 53-yard march, most of which came on a 44-yard Jim Jarvis-Dan Morgous pass play.

Crestmoor was banged around for the rest of the game by fired-up Hillsdale defense, and couldn't do anything more profitable than use up time. But the way the Falcon defense had started to play after that first Knight score, nine points was good enough.

The Knights managed a drive all the way to the Falcon ten late in the game, with Chuck Lucas, who ran for 102 yards in the game on 15 carries, getting away for two long gainers. But Stu Bringhurst ended any hopes of an upset as on fourth down from the ten, the Falcon tackle caught Knight quarterback Ron Doss for a 13-yard loss.

Runners of HMB, Oceana NPL Winners

Half Moon Bay, behind the usual fine running of Rudy Snyders, defeated both Westmoor and Serramonte October 20 in a North Peninsula League triangular meet.

Snyders ran Serramonte's 2.0 course in record-breaking 9:43 time, leading the Cougars to their tenth win overall, and third league victory, with one loss.

Meanwhile, the team that administered that loss, Oceana, defeated El Camino 20-36 in another NPL meet held at Oceana.

Individual honors went to the Colts' Jim Van Dine, however. Van Dine scooted over the 2.0 mile course in 10:17, breaking the old record by eight seconds. Oceana is now 3-0 in league, as it goes for its third NPL championship in a row.

Daly City League

Softball Action

Are your Sunday mornings boring, with nothing to do but get up and watch football games all day?

Well now you can liven up your Sundays and still have time to catch that big game. Every Sunday for the next four weeks you can see some exciting games at Westlake Park or Colma field. All games are at 10 a.m. or 2 p.m.

The league consists of six ball clubs.

In first-week action the Mets clobbered the Misfits, 16 to 1.

The Radicals defeated the Stone Ponies, 6 to 3, and in the day's closest contest the Chiefs squeaked past Geramoni AC, 3 to 2.

It was all basic fundamentals, solid defense and consistent hitting, for the Mets, as they collected over 20 hits and broke open what was a close contest for four innings by scoring seven runs and counting from there. A three-run home run by Bruce Korn highlighted the big inning.

In a thriller at Colma field the Chiefs, aided by three errors, came back from a 2-1 deficit to pull out the game in the seventh inning, getting two runs and winning, 3-2.

At Westlake North the Radicals and the Stone Ponies got together in a real good game, with the Radicals winning, 6-3.

When the 49ers are home, the games start at 10 a.m., and when they are on the road, the games are at 2 p.m.

Bucs Made Giants Look Good–Pacini

it, with Blue pitching, and a little wild, Monte said gloriously, "Vida has walked the lead-off man in the last two innings. This is a very unusual trait for him."

APPARENTLY, Vida Blue single-handedly ruined American league hitting statistics in only half a season. The junior circuit didn't own a man who scored 100 runs, only one who drove in 100 or more (Harmon Killebrew, 119), only one with 200 or more hits (Cesar Tovar, 204), its doubles leader (Reggie Smith) hit only 33 of them, and its homerun leader (Bill Melton) only 33.

If you're still wondering how the Kansas City team could come in even a distant second to the runaway A's, consider that they had seven, count 'em seven, pitchers with ERA's under 3.00. And they were regulars, either starting or relieving, not guys who came up for the last few weeks of the season.

WE HOPE THEY have a reverse come-back player of the year award this winter . . . a flop of the year award. Our nominee is Cincinnati pitcher Jim Merritt, who in '70 had a 20-12 record, and who this past season spurted to 1-11.

TAG END: If UC Berkeley wants our opinion, they should thumb their nose at the NCAA for the injustice done them in the Issac Curtis case, and go independent. And if the rest of the Pac-8 conference had any guts, they'd follow Cal. If enough football powers did that and eventually formed their own organizations, the NCAA would be finished. It wouldn't have any empire to rule.

Hillsdale Coach Unveils Surprise

WELL, NOW EVERYBODY knows what Ron Anderson was up to during Hillsdale's weeks off before Friday's game with Crestmoor. The Knight mentor was quietly coming up with still another quick, tough, alert team bent on giving everybody a world of hurt, just as though graduation never happened last June.

Ed Kertel, Rob Dean, Terry Webb and all the seniors who helped bring home the MPL title last year are gone, but the Knights are still something to think about. There's a new crop of seniors, and some talented people from last year's championship frosh-soph squad.

The Knights surprised Crestmoor with their quickness, drawing first blood and dominating the game until the Falcon's 6-7, 215-pound tackle Emmett McCourt, broke through on a Hillsdale quick kick and sent it flying back across the Knight end line for a safety. That was the turning point and, it turned out, the margin of victory for the Falcons (9-8).

McCourt grinned over the memory after the game. "I didn't know what they were doing when I went in there. Then I saw they were kicking and I just put my hands up and the ball hit. I thought for sure I had a touchdown coming, the way the ball was rolling around back there."

Knight coach Anderson, waiting quietly by the team bus after the game, wouldn't excuse himself with hindsight. "We were in a hold," he said, "and I thought it was just the best play at the time. If I had it to do over again, I'd do the same thing. We thought we'd take them by surprise, and we didn't, that's all."

So now the Falcons are still unbowed, if a little bloody. And the Knights, who could be good enough to take it all, start off with a fat strike against them.

HILLSDALE AND San Mateo demonstrated that the biggest line doesn't always come out winners. San Mateo's trenchmen, distinctly smaller than some of the Capuchino Mustangs they were blocking, were opening some beautiful quick holes in the first half of their 28-12 win, before the got a 20-0 lead and let up.

The credit goes to line coach Art Andrews, who by now has a lot of experience teaching smaller players the science of blocking and tackling — San Mateo has had a lot of them in recent years. Now the question is, will the Bearcats' execution stand up against the likes of Burlingame and Crestmoor?

Scots', Dons' Harriers Win

Peninsula cross-country teams participated in some rugged competition Thursday as the schools started to get legged up for the North Coast Sectional finals.

With perennial power Carlmont missing, San Carlos High School had an easy time of topping 15 other schools in the Center Meet at the new Crystal Springs cross-country course in Burlingame Thursday.

BETTER BUSINESS

By LORENE BEASLEY
Better Business Bureau

The answers to frequently asked questions concerning prices and the application and implementation of the 90-day Wage and Price freeze announced August 15 by President Nixon are rulings issued by the Cost of Living Council, appointed by the President and chaired by Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally.

Q. A supplier has long-term contracts with his customers. Before the freeze, he raised his price and charged the new price to customers who were renewing their contracts. May he charge the higher price to customers who renew their cntracts during the freeze or new customers of the same class?

A. Yes, if the supplier had substantial transactions on the same commodity or service to the same class of purchaser at the higher price during the base period.

Q. What is the ceiling price for long-term purchase contracts that call for delivery after the freeze?

A. The freeze does not apply to such contracts.

Q. How does the freeze apply to auction sales?

A. Sales by auction are governed by the same rules applicable to other sales transactions. On auction sales of ordinary commercial goods by a regular dealer at auction or otherwise, the ceiling is the highest price at which the owner delivered or furnished such commodities to purchasers in a substantial number of transactions during the base period. The ceiling price at auction sales of commodities for which no established market prices exist, and which are sold by or for the amount of persons not ordinarily engaged in this business of selling such merchandise is the highest price for comparable commodities in the base period. Auction sales under Court order are governed by the preceding. Auctioneers fees and commissions are frozen at base period levels.

Q. Are advance ticket sales for sporting events occuring during the freeze covered by the freeze?

A. Yes.

Q. A manufacturer of holiday speciality items received and accepted firm orders during the base period. May items hipped during the freeze period be based on the price at which he accepted orders during the base period?

A. No. By definition, a transaction occurs when goods are shipped. The ceiling price is the price at which a substantial volume of goods were shipped during the base period. In the base of the holiday items the base period would be the nearest 30-day period in which transactions occurred.

Guilty Plea In Hotel Death Case

Wanda Jean Studley, 23, pleaded guilty to second degree murder in the death of Edgar Garrison, a 47-year-old salesman in a South San Francisco hotel room last June 25 when she appeared before Superior Court Judge W. Howard Hartley in Redwood City.

A second defendant in the case, Georgia Anne Bohlen, 22, is scheduled to appear before Judge Hartley next Friday at 9 a.m. Both women are from San Francisco.

A charge of first degree murder was dropper, as were charges of burglary and robbery against Miss Studley.

Judge Hartley continued the sentencing of Miss Studley until November 12 at 9 a.m. to allow time for preparation of a probation report.

The two women were accused of giving Garrison, who worked for a South San Francisco firm, a "mickey," which caused his death.

On the motion of Miss Studley's attorney, Gordon Rockhill, the wording "with malice aforethought" was dropped from the charge.

D.C. Officer Injured

A Daly City policeman suffered minor injuries on Saturday when his patrol car collided with another vehicle while on patrol.

Officer Steven Aurilio's car was involved in a headon crash in the 400 block of Winchester Street shortly after 2 a.m.

Aurilio was taken to Mary's Help Hospital for treatment of a badly cut lip. The driver of the other car, Karlene Schulda, 45 Terrace Drive, San Francisco, was not hurt.

Both cars received major damage, police said.

The incident is still under investigation.

Gas Fatal To Man, Wife

It appears the carbon monoxide suicide of a 56-year-old South San Francisco salesman Thursday also accidentally caused the death of his wife.

Police said they were called to 104 Dundee Drive at 5 p.m. where they found the body of Miachael Valentine Ignotz in his car parked in his garage with a hose leading from the exhaust pipe into the vehicle.

In the bedroom of the house, which police said was full of a carbon monoxide odor, was the body of Ignotz' 49-year-old wife Gloria Parks.

According to police, the bodies were found by an unidentified relative who had come to the home on a visit.

3 Arrested In Burglaries

South San Francisco police have arrested one man, and San Francisco police two others, in connection with two residential burglaries October 10 in Westborough.

Booked by South San Francisco was James C. Busby, 18, of San Francisco. The two others, who are being held first by San Francisco on other charges, are also San Franciscans, Mirph L. Hawkins, 20 and Gregory A. Davis, 21.

Frank LaPierre

Post-Times Writer

NOW WE ARE TOLD by Colma Mayor Raymond Ottoboni's apparent press agent that his son, Raymond Jr., the city's "acting police chief" did not himself order those two chief's badges from that Daly City company. Rather, he tells another publication, that his "Police Commission" ordered the $83-plus gold shields because (again in his words) it would have been in "poor taste" for his son to order them.

Aside from the fact that we could not find out officially who constitutes that city's Police Commission — the appointment file cannot be located at City Hall — we did ascertain from another member of the council that Councilmen Earl Taylor, Wallace Honeywell and Glen Duncan make up the commission.

There are no minutes of any commission meeting indicating approval of the expenditure of public funds for the badges. Earlier, Councilwoman Rena Vallerga, chairman of Colma's finance committee, was informed Ottoboni Jr. DID order the badges.

But the statement of Mayor Ottoboni as published in another newspaper should stand: It WAS in poor taste to order those badges on the day of Chief "Dini" Lagomarsino's wake. Will any member of the Police Commission care to make public, verbally or in the commission's official minutes, the fact they placed that order?

BET MONEY ON THIS: The county's next Superior Court appointee to replace judge Al Rouse (who went on to the Federal Bench) will be from the muni court ranks. Namely, Frank Piombo, Walt Capaccioli or Marcel Biscay. The odds favor Judge Biscay right now. However, if you have a three sided coin go ahead and flip it. Chances are you'd probably come up with the choice. And for the muni replacement? Well, that depends on who winds up on the superior bench. One thing is certain, the current list DOES NOT INCLUDE A WOMAN.

Remember these names in the meantime: Attorney Harold Wood (central) and William Johnson, assistant district attorney (south).

CAN WE ASK A STUPID question? Why are the garbage rates cheaper in the Bayshore district of Daly City than they are in South San Francisco? Both are picked up by the very same sanitation company. The rates in South City, as set in 1969 by the SSF Scavengers is $2.10 month (once a week pickup) for a 30 gallon can; $2.50 for 40 gallon, and; $2.15 a cubic yard for brush,, etc. In the area officially referred to as the "Bayshore Sanitary District" the cost for a 30 gallon can is only $1.75 per month.

Why so much less? The answer would seem to be that if they try to charge more for refuse pickup it would cancel out the present contract for such services.

This could be the first case where a scavenger company actually serves an "outside area" for less than its own people. Citizens arise!

P.S. ON GARBAGE — South City doesn't even have its own dump — it uses the Sunset Scavenger site in San Francisco for transfer to Mt. View dumps.

S.M. COUNTY SUPERVISOR (Mrs.) Jean Fassler has backed out of that Mission Merchants' meeting tomorrow at the Serra Bowl and Merchant's President Vince Merlo has got a tentative nod from fellow supervisor Bob St. Clair for a fill in. But if our supervisors follow their usual form no one will show up. If they get desperate enough perhaps the Merchants will let me talk about my upcoming Japan trip. Did the latter sound like a plug? It was!

THE MOTHER OF that D.C. youth who was badly beaten by the teenaged son of a county supervisor two weeks ago says she intends to push legal action against those responsible. Her son works as a service station attendant in Burlingame. When he told three youths the station was closing they gave him his lumps, she said. The official's son was handy with his feet during the altercation and the victim was taken to Peninsula Hospital to be patched up. The Shadow knows who.

Some of HHH's Observations

By SAMUEL CHANDLER
Daly City Librarian

The observations of Hubert H. Humphrey upon his return to teaching — after the 1968 presidential election — were published in the August 1971 issue of "Today's Health." They present the views of a man who has had an opportunity to observe a new generation as it prepared itself for life in the work-a-day world. Although some of his views have been written by others until they are quite trite, yet his article should be widely read.

SAMUEL CHANDLER

The former Vice President learned that segregation is common college campuses.

"I'm not talking about racial segregation alone," he writes, "but about cultural segregation.

"We have laws against racial segregation, but I think it's wrong to segregate people in any way—economically, chronologically or culturally. We put old people in high rise apartments where they see young people rarely or not at all. We put students in campus dormitories where they have little chance to see or to talk with old people.

"OUR SOCIETY," he continues, "is so fragmented into cultures and subcultures that we have become anything but one nation, indivisible."

Mr. Humphrey's observations lead him to write, "We've lost that sense of community. We've replaced it with artificial pockets of concentration that are dangerously fictitious, for they fail to represent the totality of life."

Now that he has returned to the U.S. Senate, Mr. Humphrey is moving to correct the cultural segregation that he has observed. He has introduced a bill in Congress to get public funds for a teaching program that woud assign college juniors and seniors to work alongside a city councilman, county commissioner or mayor.

It would be part of the regular curriculum and would be evaluated by the professionals they'd work with in the field, as well as by their faculty mentors.

Senator Humphrey believes this kind of internship should go for beyond the involvement of students in government. "Someone taking a course in economics ought to be able to work in a bank or in the bookkeeping department of some business."

ALTHOUGH HUMPHREY found that it is true that the children of the television age have acquired information that was not available 20 years ago, he finds they lack a sense of history. This he believes can have serious moral consequence for without a sense of history students flour Santayana's warning that those who do not know history are doomed to repeat it. In a nuclear age many of the mistakes of history must nobe repeated.

Senator Humphrey finds that what has been said about the social consciousness of youth is true. They do want to move society forward and have the knowledge and the ability to use it for the good of society.

Yet, he finds a group of students who are too interested in criticism, in bombs, in marches and shouting, in throwing the clenched fist to move society forward.

He warns that such practices destroy the decorum of the university. His definition of a university is "a safe place to be controversial and to have different and even unpopular ideas."

In his article, Senator Humphrey proves that he loves youth; that he finds them o)pen-minded, aggressive, eager and capable to represent themselves even on boards of trustees. He writes that he finds in this generation what it takes to build a new Pericliean Age.

THE MARQUEE

The obvious question when talking with stage and film director Michael Cacoyannis is how did his four female stars get along during shooting of "The Trojan Women."

Katherine Hepburn plays Hecuba, Vanessa Redgrave is Andromache, Genevieve Bujold is Cassandra and Irene Papas is Helen in the Euripides tragedy which Cacoyannis first presented off-Broadway at Circle-In-The-Square theater to rave reviews. That year of 1963 he also did it in Spoletto, Italy and Paris with a Jean Paul Sartre translation.

"None of the women knew each other personally, only by reputation. But it is impossible to stay aloof with Kate around. She insisted on living right on the location site in stone house within walking distance. The rest of us were in a little village 18 miles away."

"Kate is always concerned about other people. She'd invite the other girls home for lunch and insist on washing their hair."

The director was lucky in being able to cast his first choice. None had ever played in "The Trojan Women" on stage before.

"There is an emotional abstraction about the play that means they must invest themselves, not develop characters. Vanessa had a few social ideas that I had to change. It'd say to them, how would you feel in a situation like that? Now, go ahead and do it," he said.

"The word classic puts people off. Its a dusty word anyway. Authors wrote as immediate reality, not as set pieces. I've known Hepburn for many years and cast her for her directness, truthfulness and sincereity, not on the sum of her performances.

"She's an incredible professional. I told her, you must exist at a moment when all externals are gone," he noted.

I'll never forget his stage version in New York. Carrie Nye, now Dick Cavett's wife played the lead role and my two College of San Mateo friends, Marilyn McKenna and Karen Ludwig were in that production.

"I forgot what I'd done on stage and began anew. Actually Euripides wrote in a cinematic technique. He sets the scene and then zoomes in and isolates the character: big scenes suddenly become very private."

MICHAEL CACOYANNIS directs a scene from "The Trojan Women."

"Euripides was the first to introduce the average man. The parallels to contemporary rebellion are in every line. He wrote the play in a rage over war in the island of Melos which is uncannily close to pronunciation of My Lai. It was an indictment against war when all the people wanted to stay neutral and every man and child was slaughtered."

"He was exiled eventually, although he used the Trojan War to get his point across. I believe that art should rise above the documentary level."

The film was shot in eight weeks in Atienza, Spain, 120 miles north of Madrid in an abandoned fortress that dates from pre-Christian era and is an historical site.

"It was a very windy place. I was afraid we wouldn't be able to keep our clothes on. But miraculously, the wind stopped when we got there. I used the peasants and their carts right from the location site. Peasants are the real people and they have such style, the way they move and look. You don't have to try to duplicate that, its all there."

Constable Wade Johanson is one of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police's Musical Ride horsemen who thrilled us at a press gathering at the Cow Palace last week.

Now completing his second year on tour with the Mounties, Johanson says that he knew little about horses until a couple of years ago — after he applied for membership in the "elite" group.

The troupe is at the Cow Palace for the Grand National, and you'd never know to look at them that Wade Johanson, for instance, learned his impressive riding skills after only four months of training.

Volunteered

He volunteered for his two-year tour as a musical rider after service as a constable in the Province of Alberta. He's a Vancouver, B.C., lad, and single — as are all of the Mounties in the unit except the leader. But, when the tour ends in September, Wade will be wed.

He also will return to the Alberta region to continue his career as an all-around policeman, who knows that the only horses he'll ride again as a constable will be those used in the musical ride tour and which are bred specifically for that purpose by the RCMP.

The RCMP actually phased out their use of horses in the late 1930's, Constable Johanson said, so his duty will be aboard something other than the animal he says he has come to love.

There is a chance, he said, that in a few years he could return to this group of Mounties (in another capacity, such as an instructor) which is on tour with few days off for seven months of the year. Half of the unit is changed annually, and this year Johanson will be leaving.

For the performances at Daly City's Cow Palace, the Mounties are attired in brown hats and their famed red tunics, but when Wade returns to constabling, he'll wear an entirely-brown outfit.

"I prefer it," he said. "It's much more comfortable."

The constables emerge as master P-R men. They're personable men in their early to mid-twenties, and well-versed in their current assignment, one which "beats working," Johanson smiles.

Letters To the Editor

Editor, The Post:

Our 1972 property tax bill came in yesterday. A whopping 15.6 per cent increase over last year! Since we bought our house in Daly City in 1964, our property taxes went up 55.8 per cent, while the property shows appreciation of only 20 per cent. If this legalized plunder continues, only the very wealthy and the poor receiving government subsidies will have homes. And now that the President froze our salaries and left taxes red-hot, we indeed wonder how long can we keep afloat.

Mr., Mrs. M. DJORDJEVICH,
Daly City.

A New Number To Call

The non-profit anti-suicide agency which serves San Mateo county has a new phone number for those who are so concerned to call. It is 349-HOPE.

Those who feel they need help can reach it 24 hours a day by calling 349-HOPE. The Suicide Prevention Center hopes, too, that people will memorize it.

Phones at the center are manned seven days a week, 24 hours a day by teams of carefully selected volunteers. They are spurred by the fact that the suicide rate in this county is double that of the rest of the nation.

Most are preventable; the victim usually wants desperately to live and pleads to be saved, leaving a trail of obvious clues. The Center is a United Bay Area Crusade affiliate and has a corps of 65 volunteers.

It has asked help of local merchants and businessmen to enclose leaflets about the Center in monthly billings.

MRS. DOYLE HOFFMAN, the president of the California Congress of Parents and Teachers, wants all those involved in P-TA to become even more deeply involved in the activities of their community.

The slender mother of two grown children (a son and a daughter) and grandmother of three told us last week that she hoped the P-TA's membership will become a vital part of every community.

She was at the Thunderbolt on one of her many days away from her southern California home, to attend a 17th District P-TA dinner.

Before the dinner she talked about her concern for what must be one of the state's (country's) greatest woes — apathy.

"There are so many things for people to get involved in," she said, "and perhaps this is one reason many teachers (also parents) aren't so involved in P-TA nowadays," she mused.

Many years ago P-TA was one of the two major community functions you could count on to be there, she recalls. The other was the church, which also has had its problems in this mod age of almost too much to do.

SPEAKING OF TEACHERS, the P-TA may never have the same teacher relationship. But, she said, if there is to be a significant change in what we know as "P-TA" it probably will be in the direction of the PTSA: That's right, the Parent Teacher Student Association, and it's moving rapidly north after reportedly good going in the southland.

That success is not surprising in this day when the importance of student involvement is stressed. After all, as Mrs. Hoffman also pointed out: "The P-TA is composed of parents and teachers for the benefit of children (not for teachers and-or parents).

Mrs. Hoffman, who is addition of her P-TA presidential chores handles the weekly payroll work for her husband's El Monte trophy base manufacturing company, has been stumping the state touting not only involvement, but a sort of togetherness as well.

In San Mateo County last week, she urged rejection of claims that the P-TAs arehamstrung and restricted under a non-controversial non-involvement policy.

WE'VE HEARD her say it before: There is no policy against the P-TA getting involved . . . first in the form of thorough study of an issue (this in itself takes much time, she said), then through recommendation, if it wishes.

And never, she said, has the P-TA forbidden its members or officers from speaking up as individuals, who, as free citizens, have that right.

Mrs. Hoffman was just taking office nearly two years ago when the Los Angeles teachers were striking. She was asked, at the district meeting, about the P-TA's strike policies.

The answer was of some concern to many Daly City P-TA leaders, who had been accused of not following to the letter the national P-TA's strike policies.

Mrs. Hoffman said state and national policies are just guide lines.

"Each community," she said, "must find its own ideas to accomplish what it wants."

The policies, she explained, were drafted after strikes in Utah (as we recall), and presume that schools will be closed during a strike. (Daly City's were not.)

The P-TA's role is to keep the schools open, the state president said.

San Mateo County Schools Supt. J. Russell Kent was presented the 17th District's Honorary Service Award at the meeting.

Post-Times Columnist

Joe Blatchford is a handsome 37 year old graduate of U.C.L.A. and of Boalt Hall, the law school at Berkeley. Right now, he sits on a hot seat — he is the Director of ACTION.

ACTION includes the Peace Corps, VISTA, and a variety of programs that depend upon volunteer effort. To Blatchford's lot goes the catalyzation of the independent sector of American society.

"What can I do?" Americans often ask this question, and seldom find a sufficient answer. It is Blatchford's job to respond, and this young, attractive man is now engaged in a herculean effort to match demand for volunteer services and the supply of people available.

He believes that the way to organize volunteers is with a thin professional overlay, and then to employ a group of full-time volunteers recruiting others.

To the extent possible, Blatchford thinks that the federal government should be encouraging others to do the job: in other words, to take the ten years of know how available in this federal department and use it to get programs started within other institutions, and to provide such leadership as is practically required.

One initiatory effort is a college program under which federal grants would be given to students for one year. That year would count as a part of their four year college course by agreement with the school's administration. When Blatchford first wrote the nation's colleges, he expected a minimal response, but up to now, no less than 130 universities have answered. It would be his intention to then organize these young people to serve in the community, dealing with problems of depressed areas, the elderly and the inner citv.

Blatchford believes that two purposes would be simultaneously served: the diffuse, and on some occasions, troublesome energies of students, who aren't satisfied just to live in an ivory tower, could be directed to useful services. Here they would find relevance and actually live with problems rather than just talk about them.

There appears to be but limited risk that the university would become subject to federal control under such an arrangement. Blatchford's idea is that the university would run the program. The participant is to be a student and remain a student. Right now, it looks like a pilot program with 25 colleges involved in the first run of "University Year In Action."

Other sources of volunteer competence are being tapped by ACTION. For example, Blatchford seriously talks or arranging a sabbatical year for career service men during which they will perform community action chores rather than military functions. He and his staff have also developed programs that would put the abilities of senior citizens to work. One of these is a plan for retired executives (SCORE), and another, a foster grandparent idea that is having substantial success in providing needed attention, love and affection to retarded and emotionally disturbed children.

Blatchford's whole approach seems sound. The national need for volunteer services is immense. Properly organized, these projects would be good for the giver as well as the receiver. Those who give, who work, who perform would find their own lives enriched, and those who receive such services might well have new horizons opened.

We should all hope that Blatchford can, in fact, get a lot going. For the people to whom he intends to give help need to have a lot going for them.

ACTION's entire budget of 151 million dollars, including all programs, probably costs less than one missile fizzle. While our dollar investment in Blatchford and ACTION is small by federal standards, our stake in his success is great. We should all wish him well.
